THE EIGHT HOUR LAW

City Solicitor Elucidates Its Application to Car Sprinkler

City Solicitor Dunham has sent to the honor, the mayor, an opinion upon the application of the eight hour law to the street car sprinkler. The car sprinkler company is held liable for violation of the law under certain conditions.

After reading the opinion we are not prepared to say whether the law is retroactive, retrospective, prospective, but we leave the reader to determine. The opinion is as follows:

Lowell, Mass., Sept. 26, 1911.

Hon. John F. Meahan,

Mayor of Lowell.

Dear Sir:—I have your request for an opinion as to the effect of chapter 494 of the acts of 1911, upon the contract now in force between the city of Lowell and the American Car Sprinkler company. This contract, I understand was entered into in the year 1910. At that time the "Eight Hour Law," so called, which has either been repealed or amended by chapter 494, provided that no laborer, workman or mechanic engaged in any public work in the employ of the municipality or any county or municipality or contractor or sub contractor, should be "requested or required" to work more than eight hours in any one calendar day or more than 48 hours in any one week. The present law provides that no laborer, workman or mechanic shall be "required or permitted" to work more than eight hours in any one calendar day.

It is a well established principle of law that every statute which takes away or impairs vested rights acquired under existing laws, or creates new obligations, imposes a new duty, or attaches a new disability in respect to transactions or considerations already past must be deemed retrospective, and such a law is void, at least in respect to past transactions injuriously affected thereby. This being true, I do not think that the eight hour law as it stands today would be construed as retrospective, that is, as injuriously affecting transactions already past, unless such intention was clearly and unequivocally expressed.

Whether the change in the language of the statute from the words "request or require" to the words "require or permit" would in any way affect the existing contract between the city of Lowell and the American Car Sprinkler Co. to the prejudice of either party, I am not prepared to say, as I have no facts upon which to base an assumption either way, but if it would, then the statute should be construed as retrospective. In any event, if the present law does not apply to this particular contract, the responsibility for its violation, if there be any, rests upon the American Car Sprinkler Co. and not upon the city of Lowell.

Very truly yours,

W. W. Dunham,
City Solicitor.

COURT IS SURPRISED

That Aged and Friendless German Can Come Here

Nicholas Heimer, aged 62 years, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with being a vagrant. Through an interpreter he said he did not know the meaning of the word vagrant but that he had no home and was unable to work owing to his advanced age. He said that he left Germany about a month ago and arrived in Boston and since then had been going from place to place.

Deputy Supt. Downey informed the court that the man applied for lodging at the station house on September 19th and called again last night. It is thought that he is suffering from a mental affliction and the court decided that it would be advisable to send him to a place where he could be under observation and he was sent to the state farm at Bridgewater.

Case Continued

The case of James J. Lannon, charged with breaking and entering a camp in Billerica and stealing different articles, was to have been heard this morning but counsel for the defense wrote a letter to the court in which he stated that he was running for the house of representatives and is all tied out and would be unable to be present this morning. Judge Hadley thought it rather strange that the wheels of justice should be blocked by politics, but allowed the request and the case will be heard Friday.

Assault and Battery

Sherry Seymour was charged with assault and battery on Manuel Souza. He entered a plea of guilty but according to the testimony which he offered he incriminated himself and after being found guilty was ordered to pay a fine of $10 and furnish a bond of $100 to keep the peace for six months.

Souza testified that Seymour entered his house between 11:30 o'clock and 12 o'clock and assaulted him. Seymour's only excuse offered was that he went to the house to see if his sister was getting engaged to eat.

Larceny Case Postponed

George E. Van Valkenburgh was charged with the larceny of 15 pounds of leather, the property of David Ziskind, but inasmuch as the principal witness for the government is engaged at Portsmouth the case was postponed until Saturday.

Found Not Guilty

Nicholas Bakis entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with the larceny of a bed couch and a bottle of medicine, the property of Peter Charabopoulos, and after the government's side of the case had been heard the court ordered the defendant to be discharged. According to the testimony offered Bakis conducted a lodging house in Adams street and the defendant for the complainant for Druggist, 197 Central street.

EX-GOVERNOR PROCTOR

Passed Away at His Home in Proctor, Vt., Today

PROCTOR, Vt., Sept. 27.—Former Governor Fletcher Proctor of this state died today at his home here after a protracted illness.

Heart trouble was the cause of former Governor Proctor's death. After being in poor health for some time he was obliged to take to his bed at his summer home here about two months ago, failing gradually until death came today. Last week the attending physicians announced that his death was but a question of time. Mrs. Proctor and her three children were at the bedside when the end came this morning.

Captain of industry, former governor of his native state and connected with the National Guard for many years, Fletcher Dutton Proctor was one of the most prominent men in Vermont. He was born at Proctorsville, Vt., Nov. 7, 1860, the son of the late United States Senator Readfield Proctor and Emily J. (Dutton) Proctor. He was educated in the Rutland Military Institute, Middlebury high school and Amherst college. Upon his graduation from college in 1882 Mr. Proctor became connected with the marble quarrying business carried on by his father. He first learned the machinists' trade, then took up other mechanical parts of the quarrying industry and became so thoroughly acquainted with all departments of the industry that in 1885 he was made superintendent of the Vermont Marble company. When his father entered President Harrison's cabinet in 1889 Mr. Proctor succeeded to the presidency of the marble company, continuing in this capacity 25 years, or up to his death. He was also president of the Vermont Forestry association, president of the Proctor Trust company, a director of the National Life Insurance company and a director of the Rutland railway company.

In 1908 Middlebury college conferred upon him the degree of doctor of laws. From 1884 until 1887 Mr. Proctor was connected with the Vermont National Guard, retiring with the rank of first lieutenant. In 1886 he was appointed secretary of civil and military affairs by Gov. Ebenezer J. Ormsbee, holding office for two years. In 1893 he was made the first permanent colonel of the Vermont division, Sons of Veterans.

From the days of his young manhood Fletcher Proctor was in public life. He had served as selectman in the towns of Rutland and Proctor and had represented Proctor in the legislature, being speaker of the house in 1898. In the session of 1892 he was the senator from Rutland county.

In 1902 Mr. Proctor was one of the three republican candidates for governor whose names went before the memorable state convention at Montpelier that year. Before the third ballot was taken Mr. Proctor's friends withdrew his name and his supporters decided to support Gen. John G. Mc-

Cullough of Bennington. The supporters of Percival Clement of Rutland, the third candidate, withdrew from the convention and later held a convention at which Mr. Clement was nominated.

THAT AWFUL BACKACHE

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's
Vegetable Compound

Morton's Gap, Kentucky—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have the backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. O. L. L. WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing will know of will do this so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

The testimonials which are constantly being published in these advertisements are guaranteed to be absolutely genuine.

Consequently, McCullough and Clement, both running as republicans, contested the governorship, but as neither was able to secure a majority of the total vote the matter went before the legislature which chose Gen. McCullough as governor.

Four years later, in 1906, Mr. Proctor was nominated and elected governor of Vermont. During his term of office, 1906-1910, many progressive movements that are now part of the state policy, like forestry, improved highways and skilled supervision, had their beginning.

Mr. Proctor was married in 1886 to Minnie Robinson of Westford, Vt., who survives him. He leaves also a son and two daughters.

national convention of street car men held at St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 11. He said the main issue of the convention was the increase of the insurance disability claims, which will go into effect Jan. 1, 1912, amounting to $800, for all members in the union eight years.

DUFFY LEWIS

RED SOX PLAYER TO BE MARRIED
BY FR. HARKINS

When last Sunday in Fr. Chiddick's church in Hyde Park the marriage intentions of George E. Lewis and Miss Elmore Keane were read, few present had any idea that the young man named was the baseball player, Duffy Lewis, of the Boston Red Sox.

Miss Keane lives at her father's home, 81 Maple street, Hyde Park. She is a prepossessing young woman and is delighted with the idea of wintering in California.

The wedding will take place at Fr. Harkins' chapel in Lowell on Oct. 9. After a short stay in Boston Mr. Lewis will take his bride to his home in Oakland, Cal.

Mr. Lewis hopes to return to Boston next season and help land a championship for the Red Sox and get into the world's series.

"There's no finer town than Boston to play in," he said last evening, "and my only hope is that the new management will treat me half as well as John I. Taylor has."

THE ULTIMATUM

Gives Turkey Until Tomorrow to Make Reply

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A news dispatch from Paris today says that Italy has sent an ultimatum to Turkey, giving the latter until tomorrow to make a reply. The ultimatum demands that Turkey should immediately evacuate Tripoli and the Italian coast.

ITALIAN WARSHIPS READY

MALTA, Sept. 27.—A private message from Tripoli today says that Italian warships with an expeditionary force are lying twenty miles off Tripoli and that there is a panic among the Italian residents there, as it is feared that the landing of troops would be the signal for a massacre of Europeans.

EUROPEAN RESIDENTS UNEASY

TRIPOLI, Sept. 27.—The uneasiness of European residents here increases through apprehension of native demonstrations. A French steamer sailing yesterday took aboard many Europeans for Tunis, who were compelled to refuse others who sought passage because of lack of accommodations.

CAVALRY STONED

CHIASSO, Switzerland, on the Italian frontier, Sept. 27.—Today's advances from Rome state that the anti-militarist demonstrations have assumed a grave character in the provinces of Ravenna and Forlì, Italy, where the socialist and republican elements predominate.

A mob after stopping the trains which were transporting troops being moved in connection with the threatened trouble with Turkey over Tripoli, stoned the cavalry.

The rioters used stones to form barricades in the streets.

PLANS OF ITALIANS

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A letter from Tripoli dated Sept. 21, says:

"On the day that the Italian newspapers intimating that the Italians contemplated an expedition to occupy Tripoli were received here, every cafe and theatre and all the shops were instantly closed and word was passed immediately to the Arabs throughout the town to meet in the great mosques to decide what they should do."

They agreed that they would resist the Italian landing to the last and if they had to yield that they would go to the British consulate and seek British protection."

EXPECTS A SETTLEMENT

MANCHESTER, Sept. 27.—When the counsellor and charge d'affaires of the Italian embassy at Washington, the Marquis Negretto Cambiaso, arrived at the summer headquarters of the embassy here today from a trip to New York he said that he had received news from his government regarding the Tripoli situation. The charge said that he was of the opinion that the difference between Italy and Turkey over the status of Tripoli would be settled very shortly but that he could not discuss the matter further.

THE TURKISH CABINET

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—The

Turkish cabinet, in council yesterday, decided that in the event of a rupture of the relations between Italy and Turkey the Italians should be deprived of all benefits of the capitulations.

The capitulations are Turkish state papers guaranteeing to foreigners residing in Turkey and its dependencies extra territorial rights and immunities such as trial by consular courts in cases where Turkish subjects are concerned.

PAPER COMMENTS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—The

Tanin's leading article today says: "The Tripoli question brings on the tapis the whole question of the relations between Christianity and Islam. The Turks have trespassed on nobody's rights, yet Italy is preparing to occupy Turkish territory on the pretext that Germany and France have taken away the independence of Morocco."

"Such conduct is a violation of the principles of international law, humanity and civilization. It is evident that there is no justice in Europe. Treaties are merely instruments of deception which are destroyed when an advantage is to be gained thereby."

"The Italian aggression is really the outcome of the animosity on the part of Christianity toward Islam." The Tanin regrets its former belief in Germany's friendship and adds that it is apparent that Turkey has no friends in Europe. It is understood that Germany is trying diplomatically at the Rome and Constantinople courts to arrange an understanding but there is no hope here that the effort will succeed.

MISSING 23 YEARS

MAN RETURNS HOME WITH GREAT WEALTH

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 27.—Thomas Montgomery, seventy-four years old, who disappeared mysteriously from his home in Mineral Township twenty-three years ago, returned there today. No word had been received from him, and after years of waiting the wife gave him up as dead.

Yesterday the old man walked into the house of a son, Alexander Montgomery, at Ray Milton, three miles from the old Montgomery home. One of the son's children was sent to Mrs. Montgomery's home to tell her that her husband had returned, and the son and father followed.

They found Mrs. Montgomery ill. The old man was led to his wife's room and the door closed after he had entered. Husband and wife had their reunion alone. Afterward, the father was introduced to a son, twenty-three years old, unborn when he left home. Montgomery declines to tell others than members of his family why he left home and they are likewise reticent.

He had been in California most of the time and there accumulated considerable wealth.

TO ISSUE MORE BONDS

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—At the annual meeting of the Fitchburg Ry. Co. today the stockholders authorized the directors to issue additional bonds of the company to an amount not exceeding $1,350,000 "in such form, for such time, and upon such terms" as the directors may determine.

Issuance of these bonds will be voted at a meeting of the directors prior to Dec. 1 next, on which date there mature $100,000 five per cent 20 year Fitchburg & Pepperell railway bonds for payment of which a part of the proceeds will be used. The remainder of the issue will be required to reimburse the Boston & Maine company for property expenditures under the terms of its 25 year lease of the Fitchburg road.

UNWRITTEN LAW

IS UPHELD BY A JURY IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 27.—A jury of which nine were married men last night acquitted Gabriel Bernard, contractor, of the murder of Angelo Sippa, early in July. Bernard's defense was the unwritten law. When arrested Bernard dramatically cried:

"He lived like a dog and he deserved to die like one."

Further, who is wealthy, shot his victim to death after his wife confessed her relations with Sippa.

A NEW BIG LOTTERY

GREGORY, S. D., Sept. 27.—Uncle Sam's next big land lottery will be held in South Dakota from October 2 to 21, inclusive, when 466,562 acres of land in the Rosebud and Pine Ridge reservations will be offered as prizes to lucky winners.

Gregory, Dak., Chamberlain and Rapid City will be the registration points and on October 21 the drawing will begin at Gregory. The price of every 160-acre tract already has been fixed by the government appraisers, and the homesteader will pay the price so fixed regardless of whether he files first or last. The prices range from 35 cents an acre for the roughest grazing land to $6 an acre for the finest level agricultural land.

WILL NOT TRANSFER MILLS

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—The Cocheco print works of the Pacific mills corporation of this city will not be transferred from Dover, N. H., to Lawrence this year and it is said the contemplated removal may not occur at all.

The Pacific mills, one of the largest cotton plants in existence, came into control of the Cocheco print works three years ago and preparations had been made to transfer the print works to Lawrence, where the company's mills employ nearly 6000 operatives. The reasons for the change of plans have not been made known.

CHILDREN SAVED

DRIVER IS DYING IN THE HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—As the result of saving several children from being injured by a runaway horse, George Ballantine, 40 years old, a driver of Glen Cove, L. I., is dying in the Nassau hospital at Mineola, of a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Ballantine was driving a truck in Glen Cove yesterday morning when he saw a runaway horse dashing toward him, dragging a light wagon in which were three children, screaming with fright. The wagon was swaying perilously from side to side, and the children, Ballantine feared, would be dashed to death.

As the runaway approached, Ballantine leaped from his seat and landed on the road in front of the speeding animal. He grasped the bridle. The driver was dragged half a block, and at each leap of the horse he was kicked by the animal's flying hoofs, thus receiving his injuries. He was forced to release his hold, but by that time the animal was under control and was quietly halted by a passerby.

Ballantine was unconscious, and was rushed to the hospital. The children whom he saved from injury were Philip, Jr., and Elmer Oswald and Mary Smith. Elmer was taking his brother and their sister to school when the horse became frightened and bolted. The children ranged in age from eight to twelve years. They were not harmed.

MAN MOBBED

THEN HE WAS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Charged with manslaughter in running over and killing a 4-year-old Albert Butch, of 242 East 104th street, Peter Angino, 23 years old, of 2011 First avenue, is held at the East 104th street station.

Angino desperately resisted two attempts to stop him after he had run over the boy, and was badly beaten by a mob of 500 men and women. The Butch boy was playing in front of 225 East 104th street, and was bewildered by the team. The wheels of the wagon passed over his body, breaking his back. Mrs. Sarah Butch, in his mother, witnessed the accident.

GOVERNOR FOSS

HAS NO AUTHORITY TO CONTINUE EMPLOYMENT OF EXPERTS

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—That Governor Foss had no authority to continue the employment of his experts after the prorogation of the legislature and that the executive council may not allow the experts compensation for time spent at hearings before the committee on ways and means and the council is the opinion of Attorney General Swift sent to the council today in response to questions asked by that body. The attorney general finds that while Governor Foss had authority to employ experts he had no authority to determine their compensation as that is left specifically to the council.

ALDERMAN GALLAGHER

Says the General Treasury Fund Should Be Eliminated

Through the instrumentality of Alderman Gallagher an effort will be made to do away with the general treasury fund, as called, in order to straighten out matters having to do with city finances that are more or less perplexing. Alderman Gallagher will be assisted by Mr. Morris, the expert accountant who has gone over the books and who is conversant with the situation. Mr. Gallagher believes that if the general treasury fund were eliminated and a new system of department book-keeping installed things would be better. He believes that each department should be credited with its receipts instead of dumping everything into the general treasury fund as is the practice at the present time. "I do not know what we can do about it," said Mr. Gallagher, "but we are going to try to improve upon present conditions."

THE COLUMBUS RACES

Driver Murphy Given a Toss and Has Broken Rib

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 27.—Horse Review futility trotters had the right of way at the second day of the Columbus meeting and the race by the 3-year-olds brought on an exciting sea-saw that was not finished because Billy Andrews driver of Margaret Parrish, insisted upon the sundown rule being adhered to. Margaret won the first heat, Mainleaf the second and Atlantic Express the third.

Andrews was the winning driver in the 3-year-old division, having Princess Todd in charge. The filly owned by Miss K. L. Wilks of Galt, Ont., was quite the best of the lot and in the second heat fixed the season's mark for trotters of her age at 2:34. Trengant's Nell did most of the containing in this heat.

Two of the 3-year-olds stumbled when hearing the first of their first mile. Mainleaf dropped inside the distance flag and Dick Curtis, his driver, had a narrow escape from being run over by Atlantic Express.

An instant later Princess Helen took a header and Tommy Murphy was pitched over the low fence inside the track. He was battered up more than Curtis or either of the colts. One rib was broken. He expects to drive today, however.

Mainleaf was able to start in the second heat, and won, too. Margaret Parrish made a break going away and trailed. Atlantic Express leaped coming down the stretch and Mainleaf finished, joggling in slow time.

The third heat seemed to be at the mercy of Margaret Parrish, judging from the clip shown on the back stretch, but she died. Atlantic Express closed up fast in the last quarter and won with considerable to spare.

Peter the Second took the 2:07 pacing stake as he pleased, brushing to the lead each time after making the last turn.

My Shady Belle entered into the argument of the 2:09 pace, brought over from Monday, and won it by taking all three heats raced yesterday.

SUPERIOR COURT

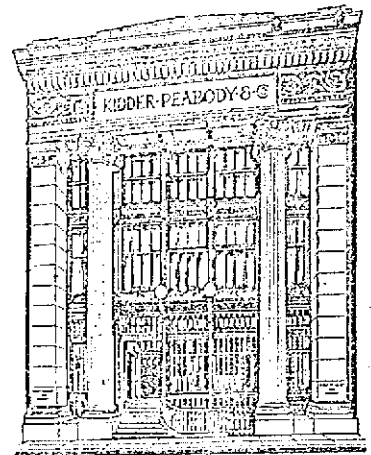

WILL CONVEY IN THIS CITY NEXT MONDAY

The superior civil court with jury will come in for the fall term at the court house in Gorham street next Monday morning at 10 o'clock. It is not as yet definitely known who will preside at this term of the court, but it is more than likely that Judge King of Springfield will be the presiding justice.

The trial docket is an exceptionally long one, and contains many important cases that will be tried at this term of the court. It is probable that the court will sit in this city for 12 weeks.

The superior court, civil session, without jury will come in at the old court house in Gorham street the first Monday in November, and it is said that Judge Quinn of Salem will be the presiding justice.

CANADIAN POLITICS

Inquiry Into Cause of Defeat of Reciprocity

MONTREAL, Sept. 27.—The Americans who came over the Canadian border on the train from Portland Friday evening were greeted with shouts of victory from a large number of people who gathered at the first railway station on this side to voice their joy in killing reciprocity. About that time also copies of Montreal newspapers were sold on the train, and they seemed to show that Canada had come through a struggle for life victoriously.

The front page of one of those papers far surpassed in pictorial display and headlines anything ever seen in the yellowest of American papers. A big picture which took up two-thirds of the front page was entitled "The Archangel Chains the Destroyer," and at the bottom in brackets were the words "From the Celebrated Picture of Guido Reni." The angel, a large amazon carrying the sword of "Locality" in one hand and the chain of virtues in the other, stood over the prostrate form of Reciprocity, a hideous man who ought to have been put to death on general appearances, and probably was. Now observe some of the sub-heads to this wonderful front page report of the election:

"Reciprocity is repudiated." "Canada did not sell her soul." "Canada stands by the old flag and the old land."

The ghost of annexation has been laid for a generation, probably forever.

The stranger within the gates of Montreal therefore expected to find handbills on the public squares and billboards people in the streets.

It was not so. Instead the town was as quiet as though no great political battle had been fought, though if a young policeman twirling his stick not far from the Windsor was believed there were howling mobs in the parks Thursday night and a man with a thousand dollars could not have bought his way through them.

What was it all about? Upon the theory that it is a good time after the eruption of a volcano to test the substance thrown up, I went forth among the people to ascertain what all the row had been about.

It may be premised that it was as plain as day to any one at all familiar with the sentiment of New England and notably of the Maritime Provinces of Canada, that reciprocity was doomed. Every breeze that blew over the borders from New Brunswick and Nova Scotia smelled of the defeat of Mr. Taft's pet measure. There was cheaper grain and feedstuffs in it for America, but that did not help Canada or the New England farmer either, and there was nothing in it for Canada except a temporary advantage in trade made good, the price of which might be raised or the goods cleaned to their hurt. That was in the air. Suspicion and distrust were written all over the reports that came across the border from day to day.

These facts being fixed in my mind, the first man I accosted was standing on a corner of two of the principal streets of the town. He was fairly well dressed, clean shaved and, to judge by his appearance, a clerk in some store. This question was put to him:

"What was it defeated reciprocity Thursday?"

"I guess that was it," he said somewhat diffidently.

"But can you tell me why it was the Canadians didn't like reciprocity?"

"No, I can't," said he in strong English accents. "I don't bother myself with these things. I don't vote."

The next test was made a few blocks further toward the heart of the business section of the city. Two young men,

UNION MEN HELD

Charged With Instigating Murder of Man

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—W. J. Hoerner, an organizer of Typographical union No. 16, and Samuel Olson, a union printer, were held to the grand jury yesterday charged with instigating the murder of Rush V. Denson, a non-union printer, January 15, 1911.

The men were held as the result of testimony in the municipal court of John Daley, a former pupilist, who said he had been hired by Hoerner and Olson to "do up" Denson. He testified that he had been given $50 and that he had employed Sam Cassidy, a former organizer of the union, to commit the assault which resulted in Denson's death.

Cassidy was in court and admitted striking the fatal blow.

Had Premier Laurier not been absolutely honest, honorable and devoted to the people he would have had the reciprocity pact passed by the Canadian parliament without an appeal to the country. He gave his enemies the opportunity they sought.

It is a mean and cowardly thing for a crowd to jeer at an aviator whose machine is not in working order. Several aviators have lost their lives by being goaded into flying with defective engines. The man who knows the danger should resist the hooting of the senseless mob.

It is well that the associated governors of the country have banded together in defense of state rights. There has been a very emphatic tendency of late to extend federal authority over the states to an unwarranted degree and to usurp functions that belong to the sovereign states. It is well to combat that tendency at the outset lest it should become so obnoxious as to curtail the powers and restrict the rights of the states.

When we have a heavy rain, such as we had Monday afternoon, we learn something about the comparative uselessness of cinder sidewalks, and the walks and streets made of yellow clay. Such streets and sidewalks were deeply gullied by the storm of Monday afternoon. Especially are the hilly streets torn by the heavy rains, and for that reason they should be surfaced with material solid enough to withstand such tests.

The second year of the university extension course in Boston will open in October. It offers a splendid opportunity for advancement to those who are employed during the day. The professors represent all the leading institutions of learning in Greater Boston together with Wellesley and Simmons colleges. Most of the courses will count toward the degree of associate in arts in the leading colleges. This is ahead of anything of the kind available in our city in the line of advanced courses.

WOMEN FORGING AHEAD

Benjamin F. Hamilton of Saco, Me., who died the other day, was among the first to employ women as store clerks. That was sixty-five years ago, and since that time women have made wonderful headway in various lines of business until today they have made their mark in the professions. Even in politics they aspire to positions formerly held by men. A notable instance of this at the present time is seen in the woman mayor of Haverhill, Kansas, who is leading it in mastery style over a recalcitrant city council. Women in recent years have done much to assert their rights and to secure the fair treatment that entitles them to equal compensation with men for any given amount of labor. The time may come when the well-equipped woman who runs for governor or even for president will not be regarded as a joke. A masculine woman is better any time than a feminine man.

BREAK BETWEEN ITALY AND TURKEY

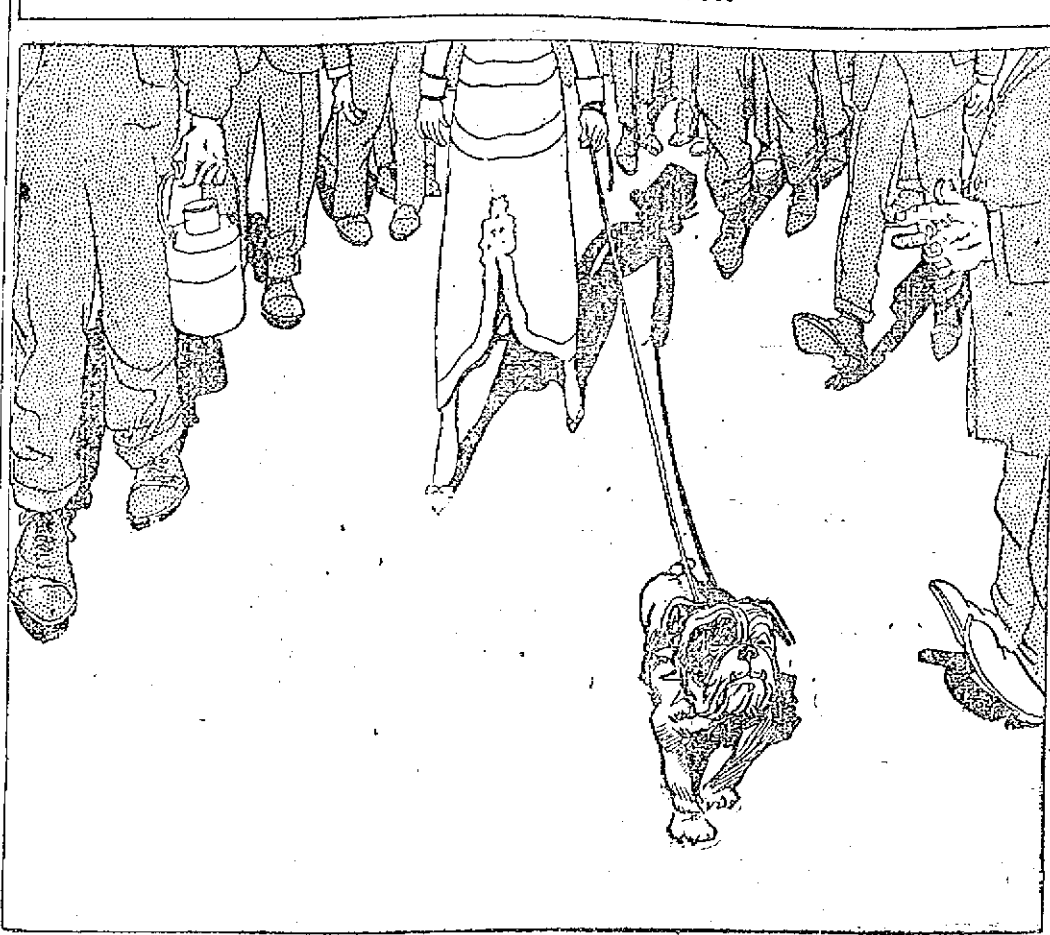

As Germany and France are about to settle up their differences in regard to their North African claims, Turkey and Italy are ready to come to blows. Turkey precipitated the rupture by seizing an Italian vessel. Italy is now getting ready to enforce her claims in Tripoli. It is understood that Italian goods have recently been boycotted in Tripoli, and a Turkish leader has aroused Mohammedan sentiment to a high pitch against the Italians resident or doing business there. The province is Turkish territory and Italy is willing to pay for certain rights for the purpose of pursuing a policy of commercial development. If Italy be driven out in this present instance she will have no other foothold in Northern Africa for the exploitation of her goods. It is for this reason that Italy is determined to fight against the Turkish policy of discrimination by which she would be driven out to the advantage of other powers. Although Italy has her entire fleet ready for battle the trouble will probably be settled by arbitration. Turkey has appealed to the powers, and while that appeal is pending it is not likely that Italy will open hostilities.

THE STATE PRIMARY LAW A SUCCESS

The first trial of the state primary law has been a complete success. Today the voters of the commonwealth know just who has been nominated on the different political tickets whereas in former years they had to wait until the various conventions formally nominated the candidates. There were state, county and councillor conventions, and in each particular case where there happened to be a close contest there was a sparring match for the credentials or the votes of delegates. In some cases the candidates went out and purchased credentials or bribed the delegates to vote for men whom they were elected to oppose. By this means and by snip conventions the will of the people was often thwarted and men nominated by trickery and fraud. Where several candidates sought the same office it often happened that the candidate who received the highest vote at the polls was defeated by a combination of the delegates pledged to his opponents. Moreover the nominating convention frequently resulted in contests that made the election of the nominees impossible. Thus again the will of the people was defeated. But all this has been changed, and now every state officer from governor down to representative to the legislature and register of deeds is nominated by popular vote. The candidate who gets the highest vote is declared the nominee, and there is no more chance of fraud at the primaries than there is at a regular election.

This simplifies the work of nominating candidates. It purifies the political atmosphere and removes even the suspicion of intrigue. The state primary law is, therefore, so far as it has been applied, a decided improvement, and we do not believe that anybody except the political tricksters would wish to return to the old system. Whether the nominations are good or bad they represent the will of the people, and there can be no cavil on that score.

FASHION'S LATEST CREATION

SEEN AND HEARD

What a fool a man can be when he tries his best to be wise!

I have noticed that when a man is economical and saves money for a rainy day, providence usually sends one.

When a man is uneasy himself he asks everybody else to have confidence.

A woman never admits a fault as though she really meant it.

Delegates James Wickersham of Alaska, at a reception in Washington, nodded rather contemptuously toward a much-decorated general. "You see those three superb medals on the general's breast?" he said. "Well, let me tell you how he got them. He got the third because he already had two. He got the second because he had one. And he got the first because he had none."

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the famous food expert, said in Washington, apropos of beer made of cabbage leaves: "To give the world beer of hops and malt is really nothing, but a cabbage beer is not only to injure the health—it is to injure the character—the character, I mean, of the brewer and his hands."

"This boy, for being a truant and runaway, was put in a reformatory. A grown-up friend of his visited him there. He had some friends, you see, for his badness was due to boisterous high spirits rather than to viciousness or meanness."

"Well, Jack," said the grown-up friend, "how are you getting on here in this institution?"

The lad smiled a smile singularly bitter for one so young.

"O, I'm getting on fine, sir," he replied. "They are going, they say, to make an honest man of me."

"And how are they going to make an honest man of you, Jack, my boy?"

"Well, sir, they've started by putting me in a shoe shop. I stuff paste-board into oak leather shoes."

P. F. Willis of Dallas, the leader of the Texas delegates to the Associated Advertising clubs convention in Boston, was condemning dishonest advertising.

"The dishonest advertiser," he said, "gets shown up in the long run. He fares the same as Gus Blake."

"Gus Blake was a trolley conductor. One day, when the car was crowded, a gentleman halted Gus in the aisle and said, extending a nickel:

"Here you are, my man."

"But, sir," said Gus, in an astonished tone, "you paid before."

"The gentleman then frowned and said in a very loud, stern voice:

"Yes, I know; but this is for the company."

The clock struck 11 p. m. Mrs. Meggs yawned behind her fan. Mr. Meggs coughed. But their visitors disregarded the hint, and began to discourse on the simple life. At 11:30 they were in the thick of politics. At 12 they were arguing about Shakespeare. At 12:30 they were wading in philosophy. At 1 it was standard bread. Then Mrs. Meggs frowned meaningly at her sleepy spouse. Un-

BEAUTIFUL AUTUMN DAYS Of the beauties of the autumn Pools off in prairie do sing. Of the lovely tinted sunsets Of the birds that southward wing.

They do carol of the bright tints To be seen on hedge and tree, And they call you to the country Where you'll autumn glories see.

They can tell you of the sadness Of the fading autumn day— Sadness for a soulful revel In the sun's last slanting ray.

But there's signs of sadder moment That will tell you autumn's here— Cool bits coming—gas bills climbing Worse than falling leaves so serene. —Josh Wink.

THE SKYLARK All the earth seems meshed in music. And the soul goes forth in quest— Like the wee brown birdlings circling Upward from the hidden nest.

Sweeter song earth hath not heard. Then in high, free air, they're singing. Back their matchless music flinging: From each tiny, love-mad bird Falls a silver rain of song.

Knee-deep 'mong thyme and silken grasses, And banks of clover all a-way With every truant breeze that passes, Riffing perfume all the way, All entranced I halt to listen To the sky-larks singing, singing— As their circling flight they're winging.

Drench the meadows all a-glisten With a silver rain of song.

Seems it not as heaven's portal, By some loved one left ajar, A flood of the glorious anthem Breaks across the golden bay?

And my soul mounts on the glory Of the sky-larks' flawless singing. Into nearer kinship bringing Ancient lore and sacred story, Woven into silver song.

Humble garb but sacred fire To each songster he hath given: Wings for mounting higher, higher, Till ye storm the gates of heaven. Chained to earth, a luckless mortal, A humble soul I too am singing.

But like thee my soul is winging Upward toward the heavenly portal, On the silver wings of song. —Winfield Lionel Scott.

THE GYPSY GIRL "Come, try your skill, kind gentlemen. A puzzle for three tries." Some threw and lost, some threw and won A ten-a-penny prize.

She was a tawny gypsy girl. A girl of twenty years. I liked her for the lumps of gold That gleamed from her ears.

I liked the faring yellow scarf Bound loose about her throat; I liked her showy purple gown And flimsy velvet coat.

A man came up, too loose of tongue, And said no good to her: She did not blush as Saxons do, Or turn upon the cur.

She frowned and whined "Sweet gentle man, A neppy for three tries!" But oh, the den of wild things in The darkness of her eyes.

The tameless savage of her soul Was like a wolf to see, And more than all her pretty tags And riches honored me. —Ralph Hodgson, in Saturday Review

EDITORIAL COMMENT New York Herald: The result is a triumph for the protection interests of Canada and is made possible by the failure of the agricultural element to rally to the cause that would have bettered their condition through opening the great markets of the United States to their products. It was to be expected that the cities would oppose the Laurier government, and it could have successfully withstood urban losses, but the defection of the farmers left the liberals stranded high and dry. The effect on the future of Canada of this election must be watched with interest. The new government will go into office committed to a protective tariff. It also opposes the naval policy adopted by the liberals. It remains to be seen, however, how agricultural Canada, responsible for the defeat of reciprocity, will like the best it has made for itself.

SAMUEL C. LAWRENCE Boston Journal: An exceptionally varied and eventful life was that of the late Samuel C. Lawrence. One of the first to respond to the call to arms in 1861, he was wounded at Bull Run, while in command of the 5th Massachusetts regiment. Military affairs, and particularly the Massachusetts militia, thereafter continued to interest him; only last June he acted for the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company as the personal escort of Gov. Foss. To the Lawrence Light Guard of his native city Gen. Lawrence presented what is probably the best equipped company armory in the state.

But it is as a financier and railroad man that Medford's foremost citizen has been best known. The reorganization of the old Eastern railroad, the development of the Boston and Maine, and later his sturdy opposition to the New Haven merger were the "high points" of this activity.

SECRETARY WILSON SHOULD GO Philadelphia Ledger: It is regrettable to admit that Secretary Wilson as chief of the department has lost his usefulness. He has been guilty of overzeal in the interests of parties to disputes when he should have been the impartial and critical judge. His statement that his activity in behalf of manufacturers at a time when he would not permit his own experts to testify on the opposite side of the question was in accord with the policy of the administration and was an insult to the president and shows Wilson's fundamental incapacity to form a proper conception of his duties.

Woman Was Run Down by An Automobile

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—Miss Marion Keane, 26 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Keane of 18A Astor road, Forest Hills, was severely injured by being knocked over by an automobile as she was leaving the Forest Hills station of the Boston elevated railway about 6 o'clock last evening.

Miss Keane, who was on her way to her home nearby, went from the platform through the turnstile at the southeast side of the station. The turnstile leads the passenger directly upon the outward roadway and, after passing through, one must walk in the street to reach a sidewalk. There is little or nothing to show the driver of a horse or automobile that a turnstile or gate for passengers opens there.

As Miss Keane stepped quickly out on the roadway, Henry Tlake of 33 Putnam avenue, Cambridge, came along in his automobile. According to the account given the police by Mr. Tlake and several witnesses, the machine was passing through the station at the rate of five or eight miles an hour, and that Mr. Tlake shouted to Miss Keane and also sounded his horn, at the same time shutting off the power and applying the brake. He claimed that he brought the machine to a halt within a distance of two feet and so suddenly that some of the mechanism was broken.

But all efforts to avoid striking the young woman were unavailing and she was thrown on the pavement. It is said the mudguard hit her. The station group gathered around the auto. Mr. Tlake was helped to get Miss Keane into the auto and she was taken to the Emerson hospital.

Dr. Hollis G. Batchelder of Dedham found that Miss Keane had sustained a fracture of the left shoulder, fracture of two fingers of the left hand, a cut under the left eye and bruises about the body. It was said at the hospital late in the evening that her condition was not considered dangerous. Dr. Batchelder said there is always a possibility of internal injuries developing in such cases. The police did not hold Mr. Tlake.

THE BOY SCOUTS GAVE AN EXHIBITION OF THEIR WORK

The "Eagle" troop and the "Beaver" troop, number 5, of the local organization of the Boy Scouts gave an exhibition of their work at the Centralville M. E. church last night. The troops were put through a strenuous drill by their scout master, James P. Carleton, and the exhibition was a very interesting one.

The program was presented by the companies was as follows: Whistle and call to order, and the scout's motto, "Be Prepared"; roll call and prayer, by the drill staff; the tenderfoots were then sworn into the patrol; first aid to the injured, Clifford Merrill and Cyril Worth; handkerchief bandage, Carl Lunan, commander of the "Beaver" patrol; French bandage and artificial respiration, Stanley Worth and Frank Callahan; signaling, Joseph Garmon and Allan Morse; wireless exhibition, Rothwell Worth; fire fighting, Joseph Garmon and Stanley Worth.

The "Beaver" troop consisted of right members who took part in the drill, under the command of Carl Lunan, while the "Eagle" patrol was in command of Joseph Garmon, and was composed of ten members.

SMOKE INSPECTOR SAYS THAT HE WILL GET AFTER CORPORATIONS

The smoke laws are going to be enforced. I will send notice to several corporations and if they don't sit up and take notice I will petition for injunctions restraining them from further violations of the smoke laws."

AERIAL MAIL CARRIER

Postmaster Gen. Hitchcock Has Qualified

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Postmaster-General Frank H. Hitchcock qualified as an aerial mail carrier on Long Island late yesterday afternoon. While a large crowd cheered vociferously, the postmaster-general took a seat beside Capt. Paul Beck of the United States army in the latter's aeroplane at the Nassau Boulevard aerodrome, carrying 78 pounds of mail matter. Without the slightest mishap the two made a seven-minute flight to Mineola, where, upon signal, the postmaster-general dropped the mail sack to one of Uncle Sam's cutters.

When the postmaster-general returned to the aerodrome he was again roundly cheered and the large crowd rushed on to the field to greet him. "The time is certainly coming," he said enthusiastically, "when we must depend upon the aeroplane for carrying mail. It is not effective yet, but it is being developed in a marvellous way, and I think we shall soon find it practical."

Another feature of the fourth day of the international meet was a flight by Lieut. T. DeWitt Milling, U. S. A., who broke the American record for carrying a passenger. He and a private of his regiment were aloft for 1 hour, 51 minutes, 12 3-5 seconds. Claude Grahame-White and Tom Sopwith and Mile. Dutrien also made successful flights.

SEVERELY INJURED Woman Was Run Down by An Automobile

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—Miss Marion Keane, 26 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Keane of 18A Astor road, Forest Hills, was severely injured by being knocked over by an automobile as she was leaving the Forest Hills station of the Boston elevated railway about 6 o'clock last evening.

Miss Keane, who was on her way to her home nearby, went from the platform through the turnstile at the southeast side of the station. The turnstile leads the passenger directly upon the outward roadway and, after passing through, one must walk in the street to reach a sidewalk. There is little or nothing to show the driver of a horse or automobile that a turnstile or gate for passengers opens there.

As Miss Keane stepped quickly out on the roadway, Henry Tlake of 33 Putnam avenue, Cambridge, came along in his automobile. According to the account given the police by Mr. Tlake and several witnesses, the machine was passing through the station at the rate of five or eight miles an hour, and that Mr. Tlake shouted to Miss Keane and also sounded his horn, at the same time shutting off the power and applying the brake. He claimed that he brought the machine to a halt within a distance of two feet and so suddenly that some of the mechanism was broken.

But all efforts to avoid striking the young woman were unavailing and she was thrown on the pavement. It is said the mudguard hit her. The station group gathered around the auto. Mr. Tlake was helped to get Miss Keane into the auto and she was taken to the Emerson hospital.

Dr. Hollis G. Batchelder of Dedham found that Miss Keane had sustained a fracture of the left shoulder, fracture of two fingers of the left hand, a cut under the left eye and bruises about the body. It was said at the hospital late in the evening that her condition was not considered dangerous. Dr. Batchelder said there is always a possibility of internal injuries developing in such cases. The police did not hold Mr. Tlake.

THE BOYS' CLUB GAVE A RECEPTION AT THE PAWTUCKETVILLE CHURCH

AT ST. PETER'S LARGE CONGREGATIONS ATTENDED THE SERVICES

Large congregations continue to attend the services in the men's mission at St. Peter's church. Last evening Rev. Fr. Ryan, O. S. A., was the preacher in the main church. The reverend gentleman took for his text the sacrament of penance, and he eloquently explained why the sacrament was instituted. He urged frequently to the tribunal of penance. Rev. Fr. Luffman officiated at benediction, and a feature of the musical program was the rendition of a beautiful "O Salutaris" by David P. Martin.

In St. Paul's chapel the attendance was large, and Rev. Fr. O'Mahoney, O. S. A., was the preacher. He spoke on penance and the importance of frequent visits so as to be always in the state of grace.

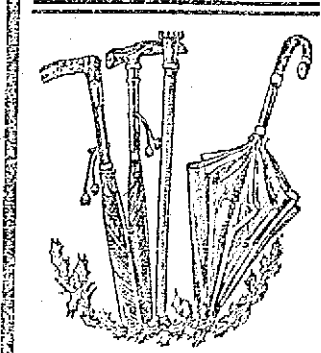

The hearing of confessions started last evening immediately after the services and will continue throughout the week. Rev. Fr. O'Donnell, O. S. A., was the celebrant of the 5 o'clock mass this morning, and there was a very large number of communicants. Fr. O'Donnell at the close of the mass gave a thoughtful instruction on the commandment of God, "Honor Thy Father and Mother."

LOCAL PRIMARIES

Continued

There was considerable speculation yesterday as to the result of the contest between Eron B. Barlow and Charles T. Kilpatrick, for the place of republican senatorial nominee in the eighth district. The impression about town was that it would be a pretty even thing but it was fairly close at that and it took a cocking good vote to land Mr. Barlow.

That J. Edward Kearns should win out against Rep. Francis Murphy in the 15th district representative contest was more or less of a surprise to a great many of the "pols." Mr. Murphy defeated Mr. Kearns last year and that Mr. Kearns should turn the tables on him this trip was just the least little bit unlocked for. Mr. Kearns didn't have very much to come and go on, his majority being 53.

In the 16th representative district Eugene F. Toomey defeated John J. O'Connell by 171 votes in one of the most spirited contests of the day. When the returns came in from ward four it looked good for Mr. O'Connell but when ward five came in Mr. Toomey had votes enough and to spare. It was a fairly close contest, however, and a good fight.

Once in a while the political wise-ones will pick a winner or two and that happened in the case of Victor Francis Jewett and Henry Achin, Jr., in the 17th district fight for the republican nomination. They were picked for winners and they won. There were five candidates in the field, the other three being Messrs. Leggett, Webster and Gray. The democrats who will stack up against Messrs. Jewett and Achin are Stephen F. Monahan and Hercule A. Toupin.

In the 14th representative district, Miss W. Butler defeated Roderick Chisholm for the republican nomination. Joseph Craig won out in a big field in the republican contest in the 15th representative district. His opponents were Messrs. Dow, Edwards, Lewis, Mayberry, Bonlett and Smith. Craig polled 223 votes and his nearest opponent was Fred O. Lewis with 202 votes. Mr. Craig is practically a new comer in the political arena and he won his victory by the dint of hard labor and his friends, who are legion, turned to and helped him out beautifully.

The local results were as follows:

For Register of Deeds, Northern Middlesex:
Republican, Horace S. Bacon, Lowell.
Democratic, William C. Purcell, Lowell.

For Senator, 7th Middlesex District:
Republican, Frank P. Bennett, Saugus.
Democratic, Philip Kitley, Lynn.

For Senator, 8th Middlesex District:
Republican, Eron B. Barlow, Lowell.
Democratic, Henry J. Draper, Lowell.

It Isn't Their Job

Therefore Housework
Looks Beautiful to Some People

"It was Tom Sawyer and his white-washed fence," said the woman who writes for a living, "who first immortalized the joy of the other fellow's job. This explains, I suppose, the fact that the woman's magazines today are bubbling over with fanciful articles entitled, for example, 'Good Taste in Dish Washing' and 'How to Beautify the Garbage Pail.' The overworked housewife, wearied by the monotony of three meals a day and all concomitant evils, is refreshed beyond all measure when she can snatch a few minutes from toil to peruse in the pages of her favorite home monthly inspirational articles which seem the very emanations of lofty souls able to rise above the sordidness of daily living and to dignify the scrubbing brush, the meat chopper and the wastub. She is apt to feel discouraged with a sense of her own unworthiness as one abiding on a lower plane unless she recalls the fact that these enthusiastic articles are written by women whose whole task is to write about housework, not to perform it themselves in large doses.

"Hardly without exception women writers, doctors, lawyers, teachers and all others who earn their living with their brains rather than with their hands cannot say enough in praise of domestic duties. They speak, too, in all sincerity, for there is nothing more regenerating to the tired brain worker than the relaxation that comes from a complete change of employment, personified in their case by a dip into manual labor. They all have noted also that it is far easier to force one's hands than one's brains. Small wonder it is that the woman whose ordinary path of duty lies along scholastic lines welcomes the emergency call which points the way to the frying pan or the bread board. The suffragette is as proud of her shelf of Jellies as Marie Antoinette of her model dairy, and for the same reason—"It isn't her job."

The Art of Teamaking.

A GOOD cup of tea is something too infrequently met with when one considers the prevalent use of tea as a beverage. The fault often lies less in the tea than in the manner of its making. Here are some of the rules which, if observed, will prove the quality of the product:

Don't use water that has been boiled a long time in brewing tea.

Don't use water which has not yet reached the boiling point.

Don't allow the tea to brew for more than five minutes.

Don't make tea in a cold teapot. Rinse with hot water before placing the leaves in the pot.

Don't pour a second water over the leaves when the first brew is exhausted.

Don't allow tea to grow damp in the caddy.

Don't buy too cheap a quality of tea and expect good results.

Here is the Japanese method of making a deliciously refreshing beverage: Heat the earthen or china teapot thoroughly with boiling water, then empty out the water and put in the tea, pour in freshly boiled water, let it stand for five minutes and serve.

The teapot never touches the stove. A tiny tea cozy of Japanese paper is put over the teapot the moment the water is poured on, and a delicious cup of tea is thus secured without having extracted the injurious ingredients—the tannin.

Always use a porcelain or earthenware teapot. Tea experts tell us that the fragrant leaf should never touch metal.

What Is New, Smart and Exclusive In the Season's fashionable furs

LATEST STYLES IN MARABOU SETS FOR THE AUTUMN

NOTHING is softer and more becoming to the face than marabou, and for an in-between season set to don before it is really cold enough for the marabou muff and neck pieces are just the thing. The illustration shows the latest developments in these feathery accessories combined with handsome brocades, satins and velvets.

THE most interesting news concerning the mode in pelts is the introduction of tailor-made suits in fur with an accompanying hand bag to match. The skins used are moleskin and broadtail, the latter further beautified with trimmings of ermine. In cut the fur tailored suit resembles its sister of cloth construction. Skirts are narrow and jackets short and semifitting. The fur bags carried with these costumes are huge affairs finished at the bottom with a deep fringe of silk.

The novelty fur of the season is silver seal, and as this skin seldom comes out in the same tone the pelt will be used almost exclusively by milliners in their creations. Another pelt that is rather new is the fur of the gray wolf, which makes up into delectable scarfs and muff sets. By the way, these scarfs are extremely wide and long, reaching in many instances to the hem of the skirt.

Muffs will continue to be large, with a soft padding, giving some thickness, and one finds the most costly furs made up into flat, roundish muffs with a deep, heavy fringe of the same color across the bottom. The large, fat bolster muff so much carried last winter is not among the new showings. It has been replaced by a triangular creation, which is even bigger and more imposing than the bolster effect. The deep point of this triangular muff hanging low when carried is rather effective, but it remains to be seen whether it will be taken up by conservative women.

In decided contrast to the wide scarfs and stoles are the tiny cravats of sealskin and moleskin worked out in mosaic patterns. These pieces are about six inches deep and fit snugly around the throat.

Coats in imitation and the cheaper furs are made up in long, loose kimono shapes, making them easy to slip on over dressy frocks, but seal, mink and sable are not often cut in fancy shapes which are apt to go out of style quickly. These models take the form of short jackets, with broad and button trimmings, or box coats for motor and driving, and are cut on the regulation ulster lines, with fitted sleeves. Marabou will share honors with the fashionable furs the coming winter. In connection with marabou effects there are other feathery novelties of a striking character this season.

Why should a waist belt made of feathers be one of fashion's contributions to the autumn program unless it be with a view to pleasing those who rejoice in novelties? It is not a sensible suggestion, but small feathers closely packed together are deemed very smart now. They are the feathers of barn door fowls and game birds that are used, dried to meet the needs of their manipulators.

A pair of boudoir shoes is made all of glossy brown feathers, mingled with the metallic green that is seen in millinery so often now. There are plumage hats, too, which take the place of ribbon upon felt hats, and with their usual delightful inconspicuousness the brims of such hats are in some cases made of white net elaborately embroidered with white floss silk. The Value of System In the Household

IT is not the woman who rushes in madly who accomplishes most. System is what counts. Have certain hours for certain duties.

Give yourself plenty of time for the performance of each duty, but no more than you are entitled to according to your plans made beforehand.

Five minutes' reflection at night is worth more than an hour's rush in the morning.

Let the busy woman see that her clothes are in order for the next day, that she has a clean change of linen with all the buttons on, that her shoes are well polished and her gloves and belt laid in plain sight.

If everything is at hand she should be able to take her bath and dress in half an hour. Then she may eat a leisurely breakfast and be ready for a good day's work.

That's what a little planning and foresight will do for her.

The woman whose house is run in the best order, who keeps her help the longest and has them best trained has a day for each duty.

She can in this way accomplish part of her work before her mistress is up, as well as plan tomorrow's labor the way her mistress does.

Method should always be used with respect to children. A child who knows what is expected to do at a certain hour will eventually be trained into the routine of doing it, thus saving its mother many precious minutes.

The woman who has no method might just as well give up trying to accomplish anything in this world. She loses too much time through lack of forethought and planning.

Winterhalter Girls

THE appreciation for sloping shoulders, a synonym for all that was shrinking and tender and essentially feminine in the middle of the last century, is noticed again this season, and the evening aspect of many a winter's debutante will be that of Winterhalter's portraits of the beauties of 1840 and thereabouts. The corsage is worn low upon the shoulders, and the outline is very simple. A few folds of gauze drawn beneath a large rose in the center suggest the births of old times that made so beautiful a frame for the figure.

Many girls of today have a charming faculty for adapting the prettiest fashions of early Victorian days, improving upon them, it is needless to say. They dress their hair with the simple and demure grace of that period without its severity and wear the chapter of leaves and foliage that used to be almost an essential badge of girlhood with a new and very alluring grace.

Hand Bags to Be Smaller

THERE is every indication that hand bags are going to be smaller this fall than for several seasons. Women are tired of carrying bags as cumbersome as suit cases wherever they go. Even the bag made like the dress shows the same tendency to shrink in size.

All that is needed to fill a bag that goes with a gown are a few toilet accessories, and there is no use in the clumsy things that have been serving the purpose. Cords to bags are also becoming shorter, though for bags that match gowns the cord must be long enough to swing the receptacle from the wrist. The Japanese bags with celluloid bars across the front and back each side the opening are the ones in general use.

Jewel Box In Bedstead

A WOMAN having a horror of burglars after having thought of all manner of means of keeping her jewelry safe, has had one of the posts of her bedstead hollowed out to make a safe hiding place for her treasures.

The jewels cannot be discovered by unscrewing the part about the hollowed-out receptacle, for, although there is a removable head at the top of the post, there is also a second very cleverly arranged pediment, which must be removed before the receptacle in which the jewels are placed can be found.

A SIMPLE PRECAUTION.

A wise woman sent a sudden vigorous puff of breath at the jet of steam rising from the copper teakettle she was filling and repeated it hastily as she filled the blue pot and set the kettle back on the stove with a nod of triumph. "That trick has saved me many a scalded hand," she asserted. "Whether I read it or was it I am not sure, but until I tried it I was always getting the most painful burns."

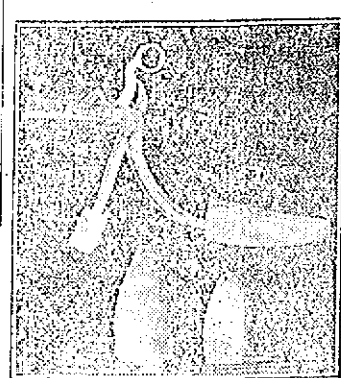

Try This Beauty Sleep

About once a month try this beauty sleep. Sleep twice around the clock and see how rested and refreshed you will feel. At first the restless mind, the very one that needs the treatment most, will say, "Oh, I should go mad lying in bed all that time," but if tried systematically it is not a hardship. Self suggestion plays an important part. When retiring at night impress upon your mind the idea that you need not awaken the next morning. When you do awaken naturally have a light breakfast, keep the blinds down and lie immediately down again, with the idea of sleeping a few hours more. Have no reading or writing at hand and keep the eyes closed even if you do not sleep. When you awaken take a little hot milk and again snuggle down in bed, and so on for twenty-four hours. It is the most magnificent way of taking a holiday and will do you more good, make you look younger and fresher than a whole week's outing. Before commencing the beauty sleep take a warm bath.

A TROUBLE SAVER.

When washing children's dresses or underwear with ribbon drawn through, the following is a good plan and saves a lot of trouble, as no bodkin is required: Sew or pin to the end of the ribbon a piece of tape of the same length. Pull the ribbon out of the garment, leaving the tape in its place. When the garment is washed the ribbon is replaced in the same way.

It fills a Long felt Want

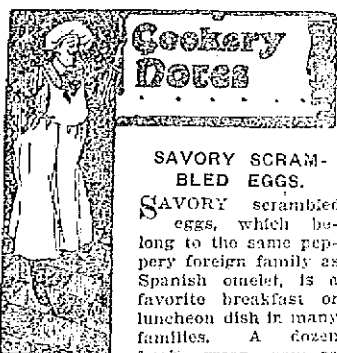

THE NEW SHOE SHINER.

WITH this simple piece of mechanism any woman may be her own shoe shiner, for she has only to place her heels, shoes or pumps over the properly sized form, fit it to the tip of the iron nose, clamp it firmly and apply the black, tan or white polish.

STATUE TO MOTHER-IN-LAW.

The mother-in-law is usually considered a very annoying and troublesome person, who is indirectly associated with all the worries between husband and wife. It is therefore surprising to record the tribute to a mother-in-law from her son's wife, no less a personage than the English Queen-Mother Alexandra. In the royal mausoleum at Frognor is a beautiful statue of our Saviour, which was sent from Denmark by Alexandra's order, and on the base are inscribed the words "In memory of the best of mothers-in-law."

Cookery
Dores

SAVORY SCRAM- BLED EGGS.

SAVORY scrambled eggs, which belong to the same peppery foreign family as Spanish omelet, is a favorite breakfast or luncheon dish in many families. A dozen fresh green peppers are roasted a few minutes, then peeled and all the bitter seeds and membranes removed. Chop them up, cook in a very little water till tender and butter well. Six or eight eggs are then beaten as usual, salted and added to the peppers, and the whole is fried for a few minutes in hot butter.

GRAPEFRUIT JELLY.

This makes a delicious sweet for Sunday night supper. Soak two and one-half level tablespoons of granulated gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water for fifteen minutes, add one cupful of boiling water, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Keep hot over boiling water till the gelatin is thoroughly dissolved, then strain. Add three tablespoons of pineapple juice and one and three-fourths of a cupful of grapefruit juice. Turn into a mold which has been wet with cold water and set the jelly aside to harden. Pieces of the grapefruit pulp may be added if desired.

VILLAGE CUSTARD.

M. Lafarge, chef of a famous New York hotel, is responsible for this recipe, which, he says, is a meal in itself. The custard is prepared by saturating five ounces of dry biscuits with kirsch and placing them in a deep dish with alternate layers of seasonable fruit, such as pears, apples or peaches. Mix together a half pound of powdered sugar, eight eggs and the yellow of four eggs diluted with three-quarters of a pint of milk. Pour over the biscuits and fruit and poach in the oven, being careful not to let boil.

SAVING THE INVALID'S NERVES.

Silk pellicots, starch wearables and creaking shoes should be avoided by the attendant in an invalid's room. Whistling is intensely irritating to a sick person, who naturally concludes that his symptoms are so bad that they have to be discussed in an undertone. Conversation between the nurse and visitor should be in a low tone of voice, but quite distinct. If there is anything to be said that the invalid must hear it had better be said in the hall, entirely out of his sight, earnest and imagination. A small table in the hall, outside the sickroom, will be appreciated by the nurse and by whoever has to deliver and call for the invalid's food tray.

Jabots Worn on Heart Side

THE fancy which has sprung up this year for the jabot has become almost universal. The new effects are far removed from the slim and counterfeited plaited jabots which were worn ten years ago. The most fashionable ones at present measure not less than twelve inches in width and starting quite high on the shoulder, finish in a point at the waist like a large revers. The side frill illustrated is of this type.

FRILL OF LACE AND LACE.

The new jabot is worn on the heart side, but there is nothing sentimental in keeping it daintily crisp and clean.

Any woman who is reasonably expert with her needle should be able to copy this very smart looking stock and side frill of fine white net and flannel. The stock, generously beaded, is of finely tucked net bordered with narrow edging, and the closely gathered triangular shaped frill is bordered on the short and one long side with wide flannel edging.

A VACUUM WASHER.

A device it does what is claimed for it should be welcomed with joy by every wise and careful housewife. It has recently been exhibited in Australia. It is a vacuum clothes washer in a form so compact that, placed in an ordinary wash boiler, it forces boiling water through the clothes at a rate of four gallons or more a minute. The cleansing powers of this operation will readily be appreciated, and it is carried on absolutely without wear and tear upon the garments subjected to it.

HANDSOME WRAP OF BROADTAIL.

THIS sumptuous limousine wrap designed for wear over afternoon reception and bridge gowns shows the wrap hallmark in every line and in the well chosen combination of material. The wrap is of broadtail heavily embroidered with chenille. The lining is of Persian satin in dull rose, blue and mauve shadings, and this lining is matched in coloring by the broad velvet cape collar which turns back over the shoulders of the garment. A bit of the velvet appears also in the sleeves.

THE BIAS FASTENING.

It is one of the new fashions to fasten a skirt on the bias from the right hip over to the left knee. Blouses are also fastened in this diagonal fashion. The idea was brought about by the innovation of one-sided trimming on many of the new gowns.

Always use a porcelain or earthenware teapot. Tea experts tell us that the fragrant leaf should never touch metal.

All About the House

TO CLEAN CORDUROY.

HOW many mothers have worried over the problem of cleaning baby's white corduroy coat satisfactorily and without having recourse to the professional cleaner.

The garments may be cleaned as often as necessary if these directions are remembered:

Shave very thinly a bar of some pure soap, add with two tablespoons of kerosene to about half a pail of water.

Boil this mixture until it is reduced to one quarter. Use a small portion of this and plenty of water to cleanse the garment. When sufficiently cleansed hold the garment spread out as much as possible while you rinse it up and down in clear cold water repeatedly. Be careful to have the nap running up.

When the pile is raised hang in the same position to dry. Be careful not to wring or otherwise touch the garment. It should be fastened to the line with ordinary clothespins. If by some oversight the nap becomes flattened wait until the place is thoroughly dry, when a brisk rubbing with a hand broom will obviate the trouble.

SKIRT PADS.

SOME dressmakers frequently have difficulty in making skirts cut with the raised waist line hang straight in front at the line of the normal waist. At this point the skirt breaks and is apt to show an ugly wrinkle, especially when the wearer is seated.

This can be obviated by making a small oblong pad of the skirt material and inserting it directly in front. The pad is made four inches long and two inches wide and is placed lengthwise with the skirt. It can be tacked in place.

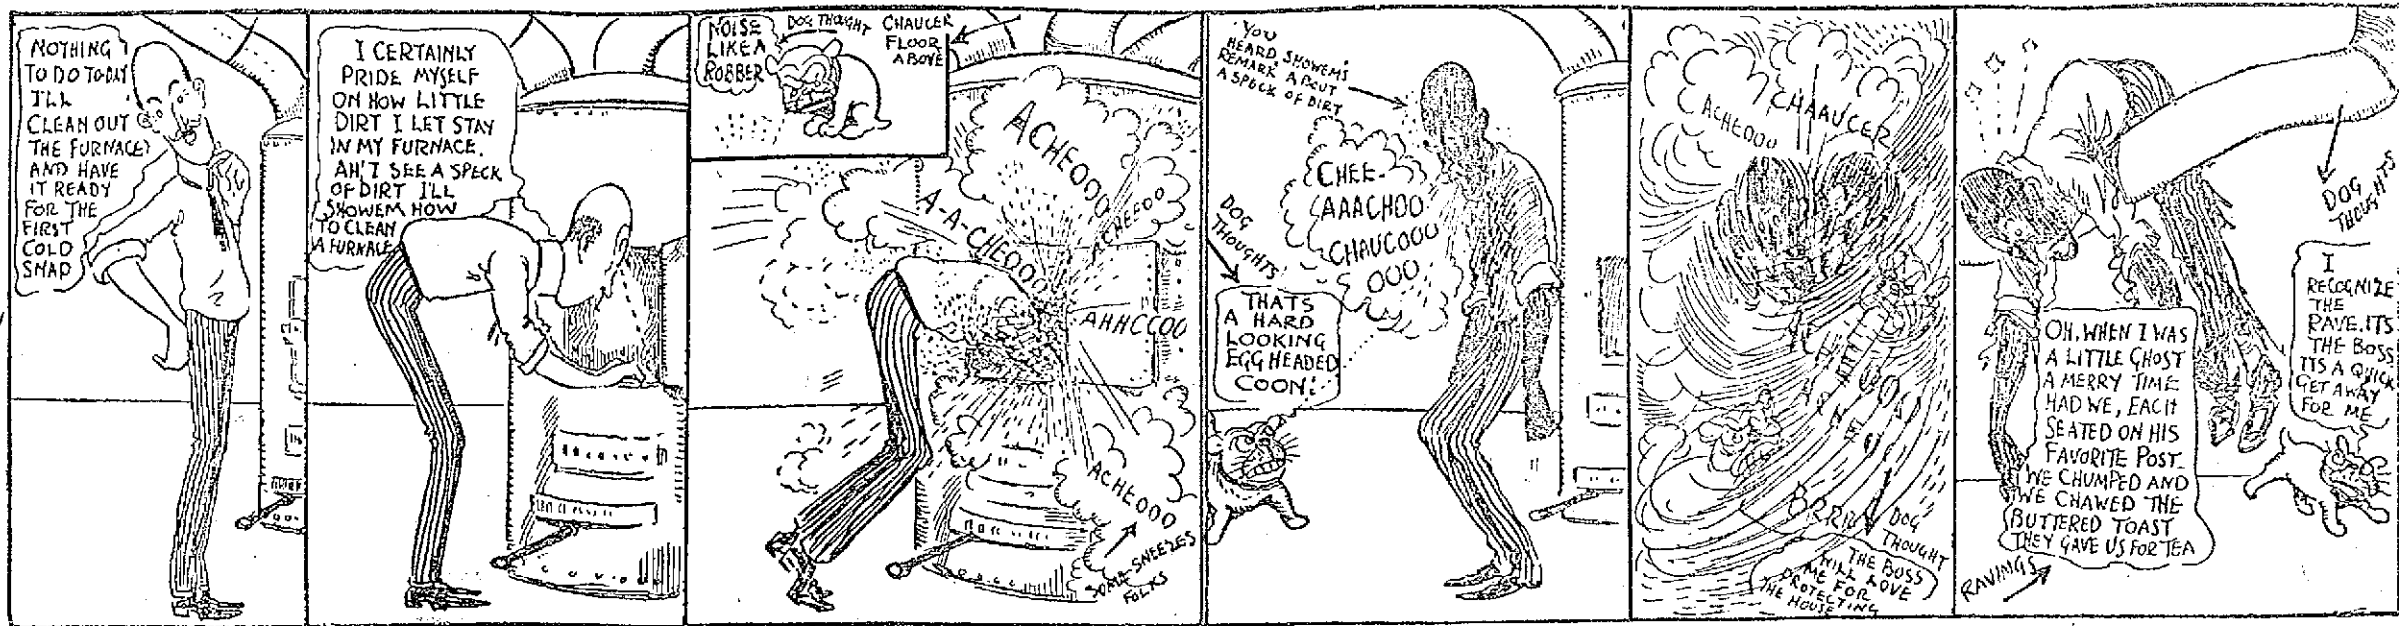

COPPER CASSEROLES.

AMONG the novelties for the table are tiny individual copper casseroles. These are highly bronzed and have

A FEW USEFUL HINTS.

STAINS made by medicine and especially liniment marks, are among the most obstinate of removal and frequently tax amateur knowledge to the utmost. Iodine marks may, however, be successfully removed by means of liquid ammonia. A little of the spirit being poured into the saucer and the stained garment laid across it and the spot dabbed repeatedly with the fingers until it disappears. It should then be rinsed in tepid water and washed with strong soapuds in the usual manner.

DURING THE CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT

BIG VOTE FOR FOSS

Continued

THE EARLY RETURNS
 BOSTON, Sept. 27.—Gov. Eugene N. Foss will head the democratic state ticket and Lieut. Gov. Louis A. Frothingham the republican state ticket in the election on Nov. 7, as a result of the state-wide direct primaries held yesterday.

The primaries brought out a larger vote than was anticipated, though the total for the short of that polled in the last state election.

The returns at midnight indicated the nomination of Lieut. Gov. Frothingham by a large margin, with Joseph Walker second and Norman H. White third. White's weakness in the large centers of population was surprising, as was his strength in the small towns.

At midnight returns had been received from 400 out of 1069 voting precincts, representing 55 towns and five cities, including Boston, with the following result:

Louis A. Frothingham, 15,560; Joseph A. Walker, 5327; White, 3661; Democratic—Foss, 32,190; Thomas H. Higgen, 2127.

These same places at the election in 1910 gave the republicans 55,367; democrats, 71,205.

Secretary of state—Republican, A. P. Langtry, 17,341; Russell A. Wood, 24,899; Democratic, Frank J. Donahue, 24,899; Edward O. Skelton, 5461.

Auditor—Republican, Herbert W. Burr, 2187; John E. White, 13,744.

Attorney general—Democratic, Geo. W. Anderson, 16,090; Joseph L. Leonard, 13,119.

At midnight Mr. White conceded the nomination of Mr. Frothingham, and sent him the following note:

"Permit me to congratulate you upon your victory. It is my earnest hope that you will lead the republican party to victory in November. I shall be glad to do all I can for the success of the party."

This was encouraging news to the Frothingham forces, inasmuch as White had declared on the stump in the last week of the campaign that the nomination of Frothingham meant the re-election of Gov. Foss.

Boston Gave Higgen 1889

In Boston Foss' vote was 23,664 to 1889 for Higgen.

The vote for the republican nomination for governor in Boston was: Frothingham, 5757; Walker, 2440; White, 968.

Francis A. Campbell won out over Edward D. Collins for the democratic nomination for clerk of the superior court, 15,155, against 13,398.

John E. Cronin of Boston received 12,913 votes in Boston for the democratic nomination for clerk of the supreme judicial court, to 6235 for Walter H. Frederick, the present clerk.

Frederick, however, has the republican nomination unopposed.

John F. Manning, clerk of the superior criminal court, won over James E. O'Connell for the democratic nomination for that office by 21,459 to 8731 in Boston.

Charles L. Burrill defeated Alexander McGregor for the republican nomination for councillor in the Boston wards of the 4th district, but indications pointed to victory for McGregor in the remainder of the district.

Barry to Run for Council

The democrats made no regular nomination for this district, but former Councillor Edward P. Barry of South Boston was nominated on stickers, and will oppose the republican nominee at the polls.

The Donovan-Kelher-Doyle forces were victorious over the Curley-Fitzgerald combination in the 4th senatorial district by a majority of 40.

In the 8th Suffolk senatorial fight for the democratic nomination, Robert P. Clarkson won out over a field of seven candidates, receiving 870 votes to 673 for Edward H. Pinkham, his nearest competitor.

Senator James P. Timilty won out over John J. O'Hare for the democratic senatorial nomination in the 7th Suffolk district by a majority of 700.

In the 2d Suffolk senatorial district Francis J. Horgan won over John J. Hoar for the democratic nomination. Hoar was supported by the Fitzgerald organization.

On the republican side in the same district Edward W. Brewer defeated Joseph J. Peely by 20 votes. The vote for the three candidates was: Brewer, 970; Peely, 950; Hannan, 507.

Cushing Defeats Parker

Councillor J. Stearns Cushing of Norwood defeated W. Prentiss Parker for the republican nomination for that office in the Boston section of the 2d district by a vote of 2397 to 2047. Capt. Cushing's majority will be greatly increased by the vote in the other sections of the district.

Secretary of State Langtry carried his home city, Springfield, by an overwhelming vote against Russell A. Wood.

The fact that the new state-wide primary system, which was tried out for the first time in Massachusetts yesterday, requires all voters to enroll themselves under either the democratic, the republican or the democratic progressive banner, caused a lot of dissatisfaction.

In Holyoke at least 100 voters refused to declare themselves and left the polls. Foss carried the city by 1077 to 142 for his opponent, Thomas L. Higgen. Frothingham received 205 votes and Walker 205. The total vote cast was 2617, out of a total registration of 7390.

GOSNOLD'S VOTE MISSING

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—With the exception of the little town of Gosnold, which is made up of a dozen islands and cast 20 votes for governor last year, every city and town in the state had reported on yesterday's direct primaries at 11 a. m. today. The vote for governor with Gosnold missing was as follows:

Republican—Louis S. Frothingham, 65,543; Joseph Walker, 28,295; Norman H. White, 18,632.

Democratic—Eugene N. Foss, 63,161; Thomas H. Higgen, 5232.

Total, 151,654.

Total vote at November election, 402,127.

NEW HAVEN ROAD

Reports Deficit of $313,288 in Revenues

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 27.—A deficit of $313,288 in the revenues of the New Haven system for the fiscal year is shown in the annual statement of President Melton to the stockholders today. The statement shows that the company and its subsidiaries, excluding the Quinlan & Western, the Boston & Maine and the Maine Central and their controlled lines, had a total revenue for the fiscal year of $87,230,952; expenses of $88,544,240, and net operating revenue of $28,150,507. The total income of the combined statement is $28,359,518; deductions from income $18,907,116; net income applicable to dividends, $19,452,402; dividends paid, $12,856,091; and deficits, $12,258.

The table shows that the subsidiary properties of the company, excluding those named earned net over and above all charges $351,251.

In the text of his report President Melton calls attention to the increased wages of the year of more than a million and a half of dollars as a major factor in the increased operating expense and says that had the old rate of wages been maintained there would have been a surplus over the dividends paid.

PROPERTY OF ROCKEFELLER

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—The report of Chicago's vice commission cannot be sent through the United States mails, according to a decision handed down by Acting Assistant Attorney-General F. C. Ricker. The decision was received from Washington late yesterday by Postmaster Campbell.

The 1000 copies of the report held by the postal authorities as unmailable are the property of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., according to members of the commission. The reports were bought by Mr. Rockefeller and ordered mailed to college and reform workers in all sections of the country as the first step in a plan to establish permanent vice-commissions in all the important population centres of the country.

The anti-vice movement is said to be the result of interest aroused when Mr. Rockefeller was appointed foreman of a grand jury in New York which investigated white slave trafficking.

CAR STRUCK AN AUTO

Three Men Met With Painful Injuries

An automobile containing Mr. Chas. T. Douglas, of the firm of J. L. Douglas, state roofers, and three of his employees, was struck by an outward bound electric car at the junction of Middlesex and Branch streets, near Dover street, about 7 o'clock this morning, and the three employees were injured, although Mr. Douglas escaped injury.

The men who occupied the machine were Mr. Douglas, who was driving, Fred Ward, Louis Gauthier and a man named Heman. Mr. Douglas was taking the men to a house in Nicoll street, where some work was being done.

Mr. Douglas and the three men left Rock street shortly before 7 o'clock and were traveling through Middlesex street. When the junction of Middlesex and Branch streets was reached Mr. Douglas turned to the left in order to enter Dover street and just as he reached the electric car tracks a car crashed into his machine and damaged it and injured three of the men.

The force of the impact threw the men about in the air, and Ward suffered a sprained wrist and a bruise on the nose. Gauthier had his thumb sprained, and Heman had one of his hands hurt.

The injured men were taken to their homes, where they received treatment.

SENORA CREEL DROPS DEAD

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Sept. 27.—Senora Julia Monax Creel, sister-in-law of Enrique Creel, former foreign minister of Mexico, and one of Mexico's richest women, dropped dead while at table in her home here yesterday.

Senora Creel had been living in Santa Barbara since Diaz was deposed. She held much property in Los Angeles and San Diego. Eight children survive her.

BOSTON & ALBANY MEETING

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—At the annual meeting of the Boston & Albany R. R. Co. stockholders today, the by-laws of the company were amended by substituting a new arrangement in which the chief changes are a provision for ten instead of nine directors and constitution of two stockholders, representing one-fifth of the outstanding stock as a quorum against a majority of the stock as formerly. The only new director elected was William R. Vanderbilt, Jr.

SEEKS TO FREE SON

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Steps were taken yesterday by Norman B. Ream to annul the recent elopement marriage of his son, Louis Marshall Ream, to Eleanor Pendleton Davidson, a former actress. The grounds of procedure for the severing of the ties were not announced.

The former Miss Davidson and her mother, who have just sent out cards to their friends announcing the marriage, declined to comment upon this action.

RIOTS IN NEW YORK

Bullets Used and Three Wounded at the Primaries

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Primary elections in 15 assembly districts in New York city yesterday developed into fights in which fists and bullets were used.

Three men in an east side polling place were shot and seriously wounded and in a number of other districts waiting factions came to blows, notwithstanding Sheriff Shea had mobilized his entire force of 100 deputies and Police Commissioner Waldo had assigned practically his entire army of 10,000 bluecoats to keep order.

In connection with the primary fight the information came from St. Luke's hospital last night that James Ahearn, an old-time Tammany district leader, who was having a bitter fight to keep his power from going to James J. Hines, is in that institution, suffering from a broken arm and other injuries.

It was learned that Ahearn was brought to the hospital in an automobile late in the afternoon, but the hospital authorities declared they did not know how or where the Tammany leader received his injuries. Hines was also maintained by democratic and republican leaders of the 15th assembly district.

The shooting of the three men occurred in the 16th assembly district on the east side at 7 o'clock last night. Two men used drew revolvers and shot into a crowd of voters in front of the democratic polling place. Three men fell wounded, one shot in the abdomen, each of the other two in an arm. One of the latter was James Costello, a special officer.

The police believe that the assassins who escaped after the shooting were members of the "Johnny Spanish" gang of the lower east side. The wounded men were hurried to a hospital, where the surgeons said they would probably recover.

There were serious rows in several other election districts and many arrests were made for alleged illegal voting.

He was taken suddenly ill and was conveyed to the hospital. The body was left in his home in Lowell. He leaves a wife and two children.

ELEANOR SEARS

MADE ATTEMPT TO CAPTURE RUNAWAY HORSE

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—The successful effort of Miss Eleanor Sears of this city to turn a runaway horse away from the sea was watching the matches over-shadowed interest in the play today in the third round of the annual woman's lawn tennis tournament at the Longwood Cricket club. The animal, attached to a delivery wagon, became frightened and broke through the fence at one side of the courts. It headed direct for the crowd. Eleanor, who was in the midst of her match with Miss Edith Roth of Boston, ran from the court and jumped at the horse's bridle. She failed to grasp it but her movement made the horse aware from his course and return to the road. Dashing between two trees

MRS. ALLISON.
Appearing in "Minnie from Minnesota" at Keith's Theatre.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

By long odds the biggest laughing hit ever shown in this city is the little sketch being offered by Mr. and Mrs. Allison, this week as a feature at B. F. Keith's new theatre, in Bridge street, and called "Minnie from Minnesota." This little singing skit, with its little plot and lots of fun deals with a song writer whose moments of inspiration are frequently broken by a dense Swedish servant girl. By an odd chance "Minnie," the Swede girl, inherits a fortune from an uncle in Minnesota whereupon the impecunious song writer immediately makes love to her, only to find himself fooled by the With this act, and billed as the headliner is Dr. Herman, an electrical expert who toys with the death-dealing current as the ordinary person handles a harmless object. Besides being a mystery, Dr. Herman is a wit of repute and after holding the tense interest of the audience for some time closes his act with a demonstration of the high voltage he uses on persons from the audience, which is the funniest thing imaginable. Another act which cannot help but become very popular with the theatre goers of this city is "The Chalk Line" by Harlan Knight and company, showing how the friendship of the postmaster and the general storekeeper of a little country town in Maine is broken through the happening of a trifling thing. The remainder of the bill is made up of John Neff and Carrier Starr in Mr. Neff's formidable offering, "The Brainstorm Musican" and the Telephone Girl." Although the stage is literally covered with musical instruments the only music which Mr. Neff furnishes is his own music and this he gives most generously. Miss Starr sings several songs which are features of the act. Emmet Brothers finished dancers; Harry Bartlett and Viola Valeris, elite entertainers and Roeder and Lester, exponents of gymnastics. Daylight moving picture films close the bill. Tickets for the coming performances of the week may be ordered in advance by telephone 28.—Adv.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

The audience at the Opera House last night was not as large as the high standard of the play deserved. "The Nest Egg" as presented is a delicious piece of comedy in which the dramatic climaxes come so unexpectedly as to stir the audience to enthusiasm. At one such climax at last night's performance there were half a dozen curtain calls.

Zelda Sears, character comedienne and creator of many of the Fitchman comedy types in the plays by the well known author, is tonight appearing at the Opera House in a new comedy by Anne Chubbell, entitled "The Nest Egg." Miss Sears has appeared in many of the late Clyde Fitch's plays, and to use an ordinary expression, she has frequently been considered "the whole show." This is probably due to her talents and personality and to the fact that Mr. Fitch knew her capabilities so well that he has her in mind when he wrote these plays. In fact, just prior to his death he had almost finished a play for her in which she was to be the principal feature. She still has the manuscript in her trunk, but has felt her friend so keenly that although the script needs but few finishing touches, she has never had the heart to present it.

Miss Sears has surrounded herself with a company selected with great care from many years' experience in the profession, and each character has been fitted to a play.

The theme of "The Nest Egg" is new and follows original lines and there are several quaint characterizations in the piece that will appeal on their own merits. It is a comedy of unusual contrivance and situations and an entertainment built on modern lines. The cast and production are the same which characterized the long run of "The Nest Egg" at the Bijou theatre, New York, the Chicago Opera House, Chicago, Ill., and the Park theatre, Boston.

THE NEWLYWEDS
It is said that the "Newlyweds and Their Baby" which comes to the Opera House Friday and Saturday, is a tremendous laughing success. It has been the test for the past two seasons and its reception by press and public proves conclusively that the show has won popularity on its merits. The comedy is founded on the McNamee cartoons. The book is by Aaron Hotchner and Paul West, while the music and lyrics are by Seymour Brown, Nat. D. Ayer and John W. Bratton. The Newlyweds and Their Baby well deserves the title of the chuckling, bubbling, cooling comedy with music.—Adv.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

If you are partial to Scotch and Irish dancing, given in true style, then don't fail to attend this week's offering at the Merrimack Square theatre. The Fraser Troupe are high-class dancers, who make a specialty of the favorite reels of Scotland and Ireland, and they give them in characteristic style. To add a genuineness to their act the music for the dancing is provided by a bagpiper who knows just how to inject that liveliness and swing into the work that brings out the best there's in it. The two young women of the troupe are also expert in their work. The sword dance the sailor's hornpipe and the Irish reel are only some of the excellent numbers provided by these people. If you wish to fully appreciate their work attend one of the performances at this popular playhouse. The other numbers on the bill are first-class. Our Stock company presents the best one-act play since its coming to Lowell, and the contributors to the bill are up to the high standard of the former. Always something going on at this theatre. BOARD OF POLICE

Granted a Number of Minor Licenses

The board of police met in regular session last night and gave a hearing to people who remonstrated against the granting of a billiard and pool license to William J. Griffin at 45 Adams street. William A. Hogan appeared for the respondent and the remonstrants were represented by J. Joseph Hennessy.

The store at 45 Adams street was formerly occupied by James Petros, who lost his license after having been convicted of allowing gaming in his place. Petros sold his pool tables to William Potter, who in turn sold them on a lease to William J. Griffin, who put in an application for the license. There was some misunderstanding about the terms of the lease and the manner in which it was dated, but after an explanation by William Potter, the matter was adjusted in a satisfactory manner and the license granted.

A communication from the Service Specialty Co., which wished to apply for a license to open a rifle and revolver academy, for the instruction of policemen, watchmen and others whose duties require proficiency in the use of firearms was read. The company is establishing a string of academies of a like nature in the New England cities, each of them to be in charge of local managers. The manager of the local academy would be Gerald V. Flewelling and the location is to be in Middlesex street. The matter was laid on the table.

The following minor licenses were granted:
For the sale of ice cream, etc., on the Lord's day: Prosper Simons, 7 Thorndike street; express, Simon Blonski, 27 Davidson street; hawker and peddler, George O. Boulester, 301 Chestnut street; junk dealer, Simon Chasidoff, 52 Railroad street; sixth class license as druggist, Arthur W. Churchill, for the Hall & Lyon Co. to be on table, pool and billiards, Paul Bonique, 437 Moody street.

Martin F. Cashman, who a short time ago entered a complaint against Frank Surprenant of the New Merrimack hotel, requested a hearing but the matter was laid on the table.

A KIDNAPPED BOY

Was Found Wandering in Street in Brooklyn

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Five year old Vincent Sabella, son of a wealthy Italian wine merchant, who was kidnapped three months ago, was found wandering in a Brooklyn street early today and was taken back to his parents by the police. The kidnapers had demanded $500 ransom in a long series of letters, the last of which, received a month ago, contained a small piece of human flesh which was claimed to have been clipped from the boy's ear. The lad declared today, however, that he had been well treated all the time he was away. He could give no account as to the location of the house where he was detained. The police believe that the elder Sabella yielded to the kidnapers' demands, although he denies the charge.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

SAMUEL ADAMS

SEPT. 27.—Today is the birthday of Samuel Adams "The Father of the American Revolution." Adams was born in 1722 and became active in politics before he became of age. A brilliant writer and orator, Thomas Jefferson said he could be considered as the man, who more than any other was responsible for the development of the national spirit that resulted in the successful outcome of the Revolution. In 1773 he became the work chief of the Sons of Liberty, and was of such service to his country that he was the leading spirit at most of the pre-revolutionary meetings at Boston and proved such a thorn in the flesh of the British that his capture and deportation to London as a "rebel" was ordered. He was one of the delegates to the first continental congress and so vigorous were his denunciations of the British that had it not been for the warnings given by Paul Revere, well Adams would have died peacefully in his bed as he did in Boston, October 2, 1803.

CHILD KILLED

LITTLE ONE KNOCKED DOWN BY AN AUTOMOBILE

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 27.—Francesa Cristilli, aged 5, daughter of Alexander Cristilli of 27 Wilcox street, was knocked down and killed at 1:30 yesterday afternoon by an automobile driven by Charles H. Warner of Nauset, Conn.

The child was crossing the thoroughfare near 266 West street, when someone called her and she started back to the sidewalk, running directly in front of the car. The machine struck the girl a hard blow and she died in a few minutes.

Assistant Medical Examiner Theodore F. Bacon viewed the body. Mr. Warner, who rendered all assistance possible, was detained at the police station during an investigation by Inspector M. P. Costello, who decided that no blame should be attached to the driver of the machine for the accident. He was accordingly released. Mr. Warner and his wife were returning from a summer's vacation spent in New Hampshire, and the former was operating his auto at a slow rate of speed, according to many witnesses.

BOY RETURNS HOME

He Left This City Three Months Ago

Henri Cote, aged 17 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cote of 501 Merrimack street, who so mysteriously disappeared about three months ago, has returned to his parents after spending all of that time in Boston where he was employed on a banana boat.

The Cote family arrived in this city about four months ago coming from St. Paul, Minn., and made their home at 501 Merrimack street. Henri, the oldest son, went looking for work and a few days later he told his parents he was working in the Bayview Carpet Co. He worked this time for two weeks and on the Saturday that he was to draw his first pay, he started to work in the morning and did not return.

After the boy had been missing for a few days, the anxious parents went to the office of the Higelow Co., and there they learned that their son had never worked for the company. The police were notified of the boy's disappearance and a description of him was given them, but their efforts to find the lad were fruitless.

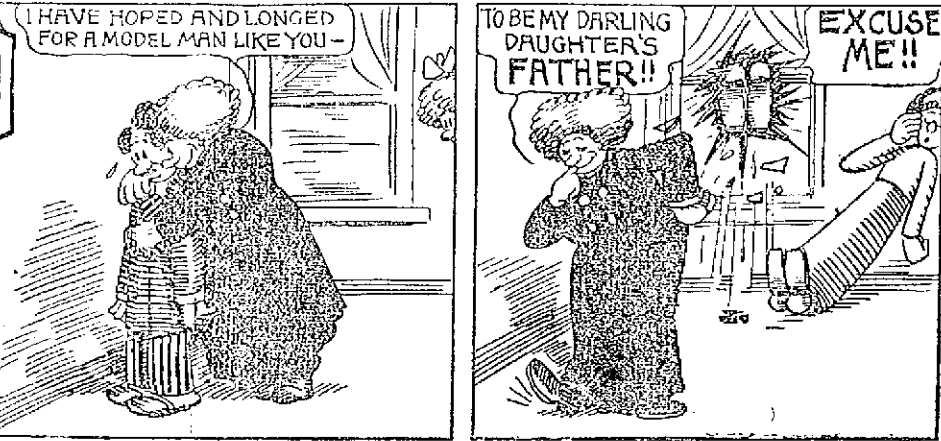

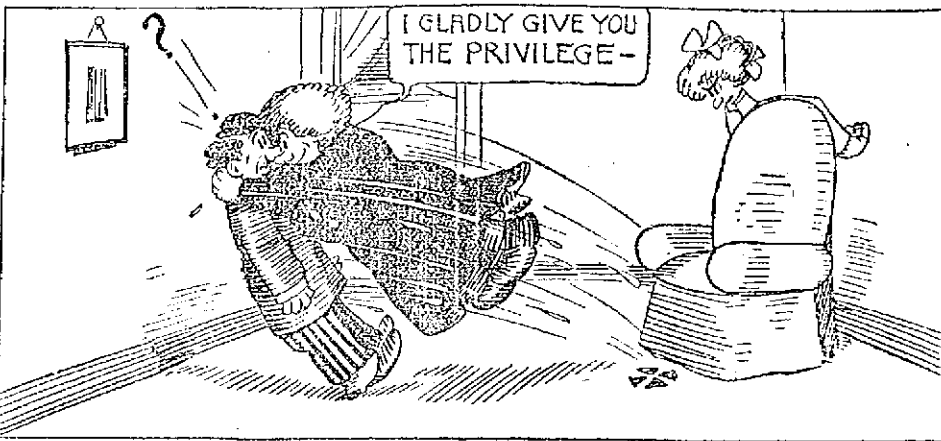

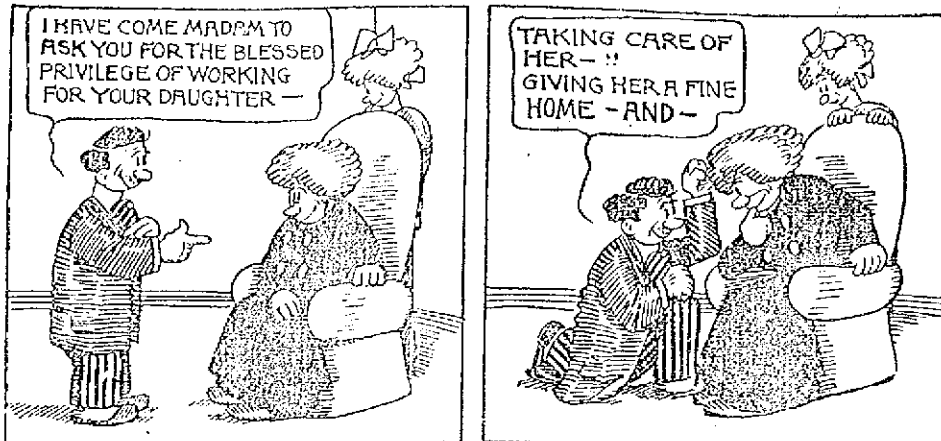

However, after an absence of nearly three months, the boy returned home and explained to his parents that he could not find work in Lowell and that was the reason why he went to Boston where he immediately obtained employment. The boy is now working with his father and he is glad to be home once more.

EXCUSE ME!

BOSTON FISHERMAN HEALTH OF NATION

Was Rescued by Lifesavers of Provincetown

Is Worth $540,000,000, According to Dr. Harvey Wiley

PROVINCETOWN, Sept. 27.—After suffering hunger, thirst and exposure for two days and two nights alone in an open dory, James Dagle, a Boston fisherman, drifted near Race Point today, faintly waving his tattered coat as a signal of distress. Lifesavers brought the man ashore in their surfboat Monday night and he found it the luck of his life to keep the craft afloat. When morning dawned Dagle says he could have cried for joy when he saw land ahead. The watchman at the Race Point lifesaving station caught sight of the man and he was brought ashore before he was completely exhausted.

With one meal inside. When the wind died down the fisherman took to the oars. He slept but little at night, he says. A terrific wind and rainstorm overtook him Monday night and he found it the luck of his life to keep the craft afloat. When morning dawned Dagle says he could have cried for joy when he saw land ahead. The watchman at the Race Point lifesaving station caught sight of the man and he was brought ashore before he was completely exhausted.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 27.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley of Washington, D. C., chief of the federal agriculture department chemistry bureau and ex-operated star figure in the so-called Wiley-Pure food controversy, told the national conservation congress today that the health of the nation was worth $540,000,000. He made this estimate on the basis of 45,000,000 wage earning adults, each representing a capital of $12,000 invested at 5 per cent. average annual earning of adults. This declaration was made in an address in which he advocated limitation of marriage to normal and healthy individuals, segregation of tubercular and typhoid fever patients as in small hospitals, and the use of pure food, health and rigid enforcement of pure food and drug laws.

Dr. Wiley said that "if in the remote future food, iron, gold and silver should become extinct, science would provide substitutes," and that science would "secure the maintenance and increase of the wealth in forest, field and stream."

When Neighbors Meet

MRS. N. AMPLER.—Did you enjoy your auto ride yesterday? What time did you return?

MRS. V. HICKLE.—We covered 30 miles. It was the most delightful ride I have had. We were back in time to renew our supply of gasoline and oil, before C. B. Colburn Co. were closed.

MRS. N. AMPLER.—I was in Colburn's myself, yesterday. I bought a forty-five cent can of Mopac to touch up a few things in the house.

MRS. V. HICKLE.—It's so funny. While we were in front of Colburn's one of their truck chauffeurs was humming this, to the tune of "Every Little Movement":

Every T. & C. Paint has a purpose of its own. Each one is so pretty, that it cannot be outshone—

There's a paint for the floors and a paint for the walls.

There's a paint for the doors and a paint for the walls.

COL. CHADWICK DEAD

GOV. EUGENE N. FOSS

BIG VOTE FOR FOSS

The Governor Was Given a Strong Indorsement

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—A revision of the figures from all but seven small towns made today shows that the outpouring of voters at the primaries yesterday was larger than had been anticipated, and that the new figures do not alter the relative position of the candidates for leading places on the republican and democratic ticket.

Close political observers today believe that the primary law will remain on the statute books for at least another year.

About 40 per cent. of the total vote thrown at the November election came out yesterday and because of the three-cornered contest for the nomination of governor by the republicans that party polled sixty per cent. of its strength shown a little more than 11 months ago, while the democrats polled about 33 per cent. Returns from all but seven small towns give:

For Governor:

Republican—Louis A. Frothingham, 66,109; Joseph Walker, 27,997; Norman H. White, 18,426.

Democratic—Eugene N. Foss, 63,029; Thomas L. Higgen, 5012.

The vote for secretary of state follows:

Republican—A. P. Langtry, 71,383; Russell M. Wood, 49,100.

Democratic—Frank J. Donahue, 51,849; Edward Skeiton, 10,509.

For Auditor:

Republican—Herbert W. Burr, 30,933; John E. White, 56,831.

For Attorney-general:

Democratic—George W. Anderson, 30,321; Joseph J. Leonard, 26,873.

The total vote thrown for the republican candidate for governor at the November election in 1910 was 191,173; for the democratic candidate 207,647.

There were several interesting contests for the governor's council, senate and house. Today's returns showed that in the councillor contest, J. Stearns Cushing had defeated W. Prentiss Parker in the second council district and that E. T. Frothingham had won over James H. Walker in the fifth.

Colonel Chadwick Passed Away This Afternoon

Col. Alfred M. Chadwick, assistant agent and paymaster of the Tremont & Suffolk mills, died very suddenly this noon in the office of Dr. Leonard Hutton in Fort Hill avenue, whom he was consulting for what was apparently a slight illness.

Colonel Chadwick worked all forenoon and at 1 o'clock this noon on his way to dinner, he stopped at Dr. Hutton's house and complained of not feeling well, and a few minutes later he dropped to the floor. When the doctor reached his patient, the latter had uncle, Jacob Rogers, who was then engaged in the hardware business. He stayed with him until he was 21, when he went to Boston and worked at the same business for a short time. He then became a clerk in the Lowell Railroad bank for one year and from that position went to the Tremont & Suffolk mills as paymaster, a position he held till the time of his death. Sept. 22, 1884, he married Sara A.

Alfred March Chadwick was born in Exeter, N. H., Dec. 12, 1835, and was the second in a family of six children. He is descended on both the paternal and maternal sides from ancestors who have been prominent in the early settlement and development of the country, men who have been honored with the highest positions of honor and trust, and who have rendered the most distinguished services in the cause of the constitutional liberty. He attended the public schools of Exeter until 15 years of age, when he came to Lowell and entered the employ of his

Furnished Many Surprises to the Politicians

"Lowell's vote yesterday in the state primaries was one of the largest in years. Up to four o'clock yesterday afternoon it looked as if the vote would be a very light one but the voters got busy during the evening and when the ballots were counted it was found that a very substantial vote had been polled. It seemed a foregone conclusion that Lieut. Gov. Frothingham would win over his two opponents for the republican nomination for governor but his majority was greater than the wisest of the political pressagers put it and no doubt remains as to Frothingham being the best vote getter on the republican side. It cannot be said that the results were not productive of some surprises.

W. Taylor, daughter of John P. Taylor of Taunton, who died Oct. 13, 1888. Deceased was a member of the board of trade and Yoric and Vesper country clubs. In politics he was a firm republican and served as a member of the common council in 1884-1885, being president in the last year. He was chairman of the board of aldermen in 1888, and a member of Gov. Beachett's staff in 1890. The colonel was a devout attendant of the High Street Congregational church. He is survived by a bereaved daughter, Hazel, and two brothers, John B. of New York and Austin K. of this city. The colonel's death will be a sad blow to his many friends and especially in the mill circles, where he was very prominent. He resided at 57 Fort Hill avenue.

JOHN RILEY MAY DIE

He Fell From Railroad Trestle to a Coal Pocket

John Riley, whose home is in Cross street, is at St. John's hospital with a broken back. Mr. Riley was taken to the hospital Monday evening. His injury was due to a fall from a railroad trestle to a coal pocket. He was operated upon this morning and the doctors are not holding out any very great hope for his recovery.

Mr. Riley works for Friend Bros. bakers, and was returning from work when the accident occurred. Instead of going Thordike st. way to Appleton street, as was his usual custom, he took a short cut through Livingston's coal yard and down the railroad tracks. Upon crossing the railroad trestle he slipped and fell, breaking his back in two places.

THE EIGHT HOUR LAW

City Solicitor Elucidates Its Application to Car Sprinkler

City Solicitor Duncan has sent to His Honor, the mayor, an opinion upon the application of the eight hour law to the street car sprinkler. The Car Sprinkler company is held liable for violation of the law under certain conditions.

After reading the opinion we are not prepared to say whether the law is retroactive, retrospective, prospective, or whether we leave the reader to determine. The opinion is as follows:

Lowell, Mass., Sept. 25, 1911.
Hon. John F. McMan.
Mayor of Lowell.

Dear Sir:—I have your request for an opinion as to the effect of chapter 494 of the acts of 1911, upon the contract now in force between the city of Lowell and the American Car Sprinkler company. This contract, I understand, was entered into in the year 1910. At that time the "Eight Hour Law," so called, which has either been repealed or amended by chapter 494, provided that no laborer, workman or mechanic engaged in any public works in the employ of the commonwealth or any county or municipality or contractor or sub-contractor, should be "requested or required" to work more than eight hours in any one calendar day or more than 48 hours in any one week. The present law provides that no laborer, workman or mechanic shall be "required or permitted" to work more than eight hours in any one calendar day.

It is a well established principle of law that every statute which takes away or impairs vested rights acquired under existing laws or creates new obligations, imposes a new duty, or attaches a new disability in respect to transactions or considerations already past must be deemed retrospective, and such a law is void, at least in respect to past transactions injuriously effected thereby. This being true, I do not think that the eight hour law as it stands today would be construed as retrospective, that is, as injuriously affecting transactions already past, unless such intention was clearly and unequivocally expressed.

Whether the change in the language of the statute from the words "request or require" to the words "require or permit" would in any way affect the existing contract between the city of Lowell and the American Car Sprinkler Co. to the prejudice of either party, I am not prepared to say, as I have no facts upon which to base an assumption either way, but if it would, then the statute should be construed as retrospective. In any event, if the present law does not apply to this particular contract, the responsibility for its violation, if there be any, rests upon the American Car Sprinkler Co. and not upon the city of Lowell.

Very truly yours,

W. W. Duncan,
City Solicitor.

COURT IS SURPRISED

That Aged and Friendless German Can Come Here

Nicholas Heimer, aged 62 years, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with being a vagrant. Through an interpreter he said he did not know the meaning of the word vagrant, but that he had no home and was unable to work owing to his advanced age. He said that he left Germany about a month ago and arrived in Boston and since then had been going from place to place.

Deputy Supt. Downey informed the court that the man applied for lodging at the station house on September 18th and called again last night. It is thought that he is suffering from a mental affliction and the court decided that it would be advisable to send him to a place where he could be under observation and he was sent to the state farm at Bridgewater.

Judge Hadley, before passing sentence stated that he was surprised that the authorities allowed the defendant to enter this country.

Case Continued

The case of James J. Lannon, charged with breaking and entering a camp in Billerica and stealing different articles, was to have been heard this morning but counsel for the defense wrote a letter to the court in which he stated that he was running for the house of representatives and is all tired out and would be unable to be present this morning. Judge Hadley thought it rather strange that the wheels of justice should be blocked by politics, but allowed the request and the case will be heard Friday.

Assault and Battery

Sherry Seymour was charged with assault and battery on Manuel Souza. He entered a plea of guilty but according to the testimony which he offered he incriminated himself and after being found guilty was ordered to pay a fine of $15 and furnish a bond of $100 to keep the peace for six months.

Souza testified that Seymour entered his house between 11:30 o'clock and 12 o'clock and assaulted him. Seymour's only excuse offered was that he went to the house to see if his sister was getting enough to eat.

Larceny Case Postponed

George E. Van Valkenburgh was charged with the larceny of 48 pounds of leather, the property of David Ziskind, but inasmuch as the principal witness for the government is engaged at Portsmouth the case was postponed until Saturday.

Found Not Guilty

Nicholas Bakis entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with the larceny of a hot couch and a bottle of medicine, the property of Peter Charabopoulos, and after the government's side of the case had been heard the court ordered the defendant to be discharged. According to the testimony offered Bakis conducts a lodging house in Adams street and went security for the complainant for one day.

a bed couch which was purchased on the installment plan. The complainant had been working for the defendant in the latter's bakery and when he left Bakis ordered him out of the house. Inasmuch as Bakis had gone as surety for the bed couch he notified the furniture man to take it away before Charabopoulos moved out. The court found the defendant not guilty and ordered him to be discharged.

Settled Out of Court

In the case of Christos Tsilimigis charged with the larceny of $200 in money from Marie G. Lakros, counsel explained that the case had been settled out of court and Judge Hadley upon receiving the information dismissed the complaint.

Drunken Offenders

John A. Landry, charged with being drunk, was sentenced to five months in jail. He appealed. The case of John Shea was continued until tomorrow morning when it is understood that another complaint will be preferred against him. There were four first offenders who were fined $2 each and two simple offenders were released prior to the opening of court.

HOUSES BURNED

CHILDREN WERE TAKEN OUT WITH DIFFICULTY

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 27.—Fire which started last night in a bedroom of a house at 141½ Southport, owned by George Gilman and occupied by the family of John Miller, destroyed that building and a new house which Monte Tucker of this city had nearly ready for occupancy.

The flames had gained such headway when they were discovered that the Millers lost everything they owned, and their sleeping children were rescued with difficulty.

Gilman and another man had a narrow escape from being killed by a falling chimney.

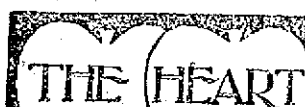

Another set of buildings occupied by a family named Surcut was saved by putting wet blankets on the roof.

The loss on the Gilman house, $2,000 and on the other about the same amount, there being no insurance. Miller carried insurance of $500 on his piano, but none on his other effects. Still blazing the neighbors took up a collection for the benefit of the family.

EX-GOVERNOR PROCTOR

Passed Away at His Home in Proctor, Vt., Today

PROCTOR, Vt., Sept. 27.—Former Governor Fletcher Proctor of this state died today at his home here after a prolonged illness.

Heart trouble was the cause of former Governor Proctor's death. After being in poor health for some time he was obliged to take to his bed at his summer home here about two months ago, failing gradually until death came today. Last week the attending physicians announced that his death was but a question of time. Mrs. Proctor and her three children were at the bedside when the end came this morning.

Captain of industry, former governor of his native state and connected with the National Guard for many years, Fletcher Dutton Proctor was one of the most prominent men in Vermont. He was born at Proctorsville, Vt., Nov. 7, 1836, the son of the late United States Senator Redfield Proctor and Emily J. (Dutton) Proctor. He was educated in the Rutland Military Institute, Middlebury high school and Amherst college. Upon his graduation from college in 1858 Mr. Proctor became connected with the marble quarrying business carried on by his father. He first learned the mechanical trade, then took up other mechanical parts of the quarrying industry and became so thoroughly acquainted with all departments of the industry that in 1855 he was made superintendent of the Vermont Marble company. When his father entered President Harrison's cabinet in 1859 Mr. Proctor succeeded to the presidency of the marble company, continuing in this capacity 22 years, or up to his death. He was also president of the Vermont Forestry association, president of the Proctor Trust company, a director of the National Life Insurance company and a director of the Rutland railway company.

In 1905 Middlebury college conferred upon him the degree of doctor of laws. From 1881 until 1887 Mr. Proctor was connected with the Vermont National Guard, retiring with the rank of first lieutenant. In 1888 he was appointed secretary of civil and military affairs by Gov. Ebenezer J. Ormiston, holding office for two years. In 1888 he was made the first permanent colonel of the Vermont division, Sons of Veterans.

From the days of his young manhood Fletcher Proctor was in public life. He had served as selectman in the towns of Rutland and Proctor and had represented Proctor in the legislature, being speaker of the house in 1903. In the session of 1892 he was the senior Republican candidate for governor whose name went before the memorable state convention at Montpelier that year. Before the third ball was taken Mr. Proctor's friends withdrew his name and his supporters decided to support Gen. John G. Mc-

Cullough of Bennington. The supporters of Percival Clement of Rutland, the third candidate, withdrew from the convention and later held a convention at which Mr. Clement was nominated.

THAT AWFUL BACKACHE

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have the backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

The testimonials which are constantly being published in these advertisements are guaranteed to be absolutely genuine.

Consequently, McCutough and Clement, both running as republicans, contested the governorship, but as neither was able to secure a majority of the total vote the matter went before the legislature which chose Gen. McCutough as governor.

Four years later, in 1906, Mr. Proctor was nominated and elected governor of Vermont. During his term of office, 1906-1908, many progressive movements that are now part of the state policy, like forestry, improved highways and skilled supervision, had their beginning.

Mr. Proctor was married in 1856 to Minnie Robinson of Westford, Vt., who survives him. He leaves also a son and two daughters.

He said the main issue of the convention was the increase of the insurance and disability claims, which will go into effect Jan. 1, 1912, amounting to $800 for all members in the union eight years.

Many changes have been made in the constitution and the next convention will be held at Salt Lake City. The sick committee reported that Bro. Arthur Hope was resting comfortably and has been removed to his home.

PARTAKEN OF AFTER BURIAL OF HENRY GLEASON

RAND, Mass., Sept. 27.—On their return from the funeral of Henry Gleason, yesterday, the members of Samuel F. Woods post, G. A. R., were treated to a turkey dinner at the expense of the deceased.

According to the provisions of Mr. Gleason's will, $50 was to be set aside to bear the expense of a dinner for the members of the Grand Army residing in Rand, together with the Sons of Veterans, B. F. Brooks, commander of the post, was named as executor of the will.

"Mr. Gleason made me promise that I would see to it that his comrades in the post be treated to a bang-up good dinner," said Mr. Brooks yesterday.

"We had a talk about a year ago, when the will was drawn up, and at that time I promised him that I would see to it that his wishes were carried out."

The funeral services were held yesterday at the home in Mechanics street, and were in charge of the post. Rev. Edmund Tubbin of the First Methodist church officiated. After the dinner was eaten the veterans and sons of sons of veterans returned to G. A. R. hall, where services of eulogy were held.

Two well attended meetings of the street car men were held last night at their quarters in the Union Bank building in Merrimack street. Considerable business of importance was transacted during the meetings.

Joseph Powers was elected floor director of the ball which is to be held in the near future. President Sprague, who was a delegate to the state branch of the American Federation of Labor, held in Haverhill on Sept. 16, submitted a report of the doings of the convention.

Thomas Cunningham gave a detailed report as the delegate to the international convention of street car men held at St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 11. He said the main issue of the convention was the increase of the insurance and disability claims, which will go into effect Jan. 1, 1912, amounting to $800 for all members in the union eight years.

Many changes have been made in the constitution and the next convention will be held at Salt Lake City. The sick committee reported that Bro. Arthur Hope was resting comfortably and has been removed to his home.

The regular meeting of Bay State colony, I. O. O. F., was held last night and the following officers were elected: Edward J. Sheehan, governor; Mrs. Elizabeth Coolidge, lieutenant governor; J. Webster, secretary; W. A. Sheehan, collector; P. Sheehan, treasurer; Miss Alice Bartley, chaplain; Miss Ida Hays, sergeant at arms; J. Pyne, sentinel of interior gate; Miss M. Dugan, outer sentinel.

TURKEY FEAST

PARTAKEN OF AFTER BURIAL OF HENRY GLEASON

RAND, Mass., Sept. 27.—On their return from the funeral of Henry Gleason, yesterday, the members of Samuel F. Woods post, G. A. R., were treated to a turkey dinner at the expense of the deceased.

According to the provisions of Mr. Gleason's will, $50 was to be set aside to bear the expense of a dinner for the members of the Grand Army residing in Rand, together with the Sons of Veterans, B. F. Brooks, commander of the post, was named as executor of the will.

"Mr. Gleason made me promise that I would see to it that his comrades in the post be treated to a bang-up good dinner," said Mr. Brooks yesterday.

"We had a talk about a year ago, when the will was drawn up, and at that time I promised him that I would see to it that his wishes were carried out."

The funeral services were held yesterday at the home in Mechanics street, and were in charge of the post. Rev. Edmund Tubbin of the First Methodist church officiated. Burial was in Glen Valley cemetery. The bearers were the following Sons of Veterans: Leon B. Smith, John Hancock, Jr., Fred Bailey and Warren Tolman.

After the dinner was eaten the veterans and sons of sons of veterans returned to G. A. R. hall, where services of eulogy were held.

DUFFY LEWIS

RED SOX PLAYER TO BE MARRIED BY FR. HARKINS

When last Sunday in Fr. Chiddick's church in Hyde Park the marriage intentions of George E. Lewis and Miss Blenore Keane were read, few present had any idea that the young man named was the baseball player, Duffy Lewis, of the Boston Red Sox.

Miss Keane lives at her father's home, 81 Maple street, Hyde Park. She is a prepossessing young woman and is delighted with the idea of wintering in California.

The wedding will take place at Fr. Harkins' chapel in Lowell on Oct. 9. After a short stay in Boston Mr. Lewis will take his bride to his home in Oakland, Cal.

Mr. Lewis hopes to return to Boston next season and help land a championship for the Red Sox and get into the world's series.

"There's no finer town than Boston to play in," he said last evening, "and my only hope is that the new management will treat me half as well as John I. Taylor has."

The Johnson-Wells Fight May Not Take Place

Gives Turkey Until Tomorrow to Make Reply

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The court today granted the application of the District Railroad Co., the ground landlord of the Earl's Court, for an injunction against the lessees of the building, to stop the proposed Johnson-Wells fight, subject to damages if the decision is reversed on trial.

A crowd of sporting men filled the Bow street police court for the hearing that the proposed contest would be of Jack Johnson, Lombardier Wells, their managers and James White, the promoter of the prize fight, scheduled for October 2, who had been summoned on the complaint that they were planning to commit a breach of subject to damages if the decision is reversed on trial.

The action was instituted by the public prosecutor, following the decision of Home Secretary Churchill, that the proposed contest would be a breach of the law.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A news despatch from Paris today says that Italy has sent an ultimatum to Turkey saying that the latter must agree to an Italian occupation of Tripoli and that unless a reply is received by tomorrow Italy will immediately proceed with the threatened occupation.

ITALIAN WARSHIPS READY

MALTA, Sept. 27.—A private message from Tripoli today says that Italian warships with an expeditionary force are lying twenty miles off Tripoli and that there is a panic among the Italian residents there, as it is feared that the landing of troops would be the signal for a massacre of Europeans.

EUROPEAN RESIDENTS UNEASY

TRIPOLI, Sept. 27.—The uneasiness of European residents here increases through apprehension of native demonstrations.

A French steamer sailing yesterday took aboard many Europeans for Tunis but were compelled to refuse others who sought passage because of lack of accommodations.

CAVALRY STONED

CHIASSO, Switzerland, on the Italian frontier, Sept. 27.—Today's advices from Rome state that the anti-militarist demonstrations have assumed a grave character in the provinces of Ravenna and Forlì, Italy, where the socialist and republican elements predominate.

A mob after stopping the trains which were transporting troops being moved in connection with the threatened trouble with Turkey over Tripoli stoned the cavalry.

The rioters used stones to form barricades in the streets.

PLANS OF ITALIANS

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A letter from Tripoli dated Sept. 21, says:

"On the day that the Italian newspapers intimating that the Italians contemplated an expedition to occupy Tripoli were received here, every cafe and theatre and all the shops were instantly closed and word was passed immediately to the Arabs throughout the town to meet in the great mosques to decide what they should do. They agreed that they would resist the Italian landing to the last and that they had to fight that they would go to the British consulate and seek British protection."

EXPECTS A SETTLEMENT

MANCHESTER, Sept. 27.—When the counsellor and charge d'affaires of the Italian embassy at Washington, the Marquis Negrotto Cambiasi, arrived at the summer headquarters of the embassy here today from a trip to New York he said that he had received no news from his government regarding the Tripoli situation, three charges said that he was of the opinion that the difference between Italy and Turkey over the status of Tripoli would be settled very shortly but that he could not discuss the matter further.

THE TURKISH CABINET

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—The

Turkish cabinet, in council yesterday, decided that in the event of a rupture of the relations between Italy and Turkey the Italians should be deprived of all benefits of the capitulations.

The capitulations are Turkish state papers guaranteeing to foreigners residing in Turkey and its dependencies extra territorial rights and immunities such as trial by consular courts in cases where Turkish subjects are concerned.

PAPER COMMENTS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—The Tanin's leading article today says: "The Tripoli question brings on the tapis the whole question of the relations between Christianity and Islam. The Turks have trodden on nobody's rights, yet Italy is preparing to occupy Turkish territory on the pretext that Germany and France have taken away the independence of Morocco."

"Such conduct is a violation of the principles of international law, humanity and civilization. It is evident that there is no justice in Europe. Treaties are merely instruments of deception which are destroyed when an advantage is to be gained thereby."

"The Italian aggression is really the outcome of the animosity on the part of Christianity toward Islam." The Tanin regrets its former belief in Germany's friendship and adds that it is apparent that Turkey has no friends in Europe. It is understood that Germany is trying diplomatically at the Rome and Constantinople courts to arrange an understanding but there is no hope here that the effort will succeed.

MISSING 23 YEARS

MAN RETURNS HOME WITH GREAT WEALTH

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 27.—Thomas Montgomery, seventy-four years old, who disappeared mysteriously from his home in Mineral Township twenty-three years ago, returned there today. No word had been received from him, and after years of waiting the wife gave him up as dead.

Yesterday the old man walked into the house of a son, Alexander Montgomery, at Ray Millon, three miles from the old Montgomery home. One of the son's children was sent to Mrs. Montgomery's home to tell her that her husband had returned, and the son and father followed.

They found Mrs. Montgomery ill. The old man was led to his wife's room and the door closed after he had entered. Husband and wife had their reunion alone. Afterward, the father introduced to a son, twenty-three years old, unborn when he left home. Montgomery declines to tell others how numbers of his family why he left home and they are likewise reticent.

He had been in California most of the time and there accumulated considerable wealth.

The remainder of the issue will be required to reimburse the Boston & Maine company for property expenditures under the terms of its 20 year lease of the Fitchburg road.

UNWRITTEN LAW

IS UPHELD BY A JURY IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 27.—A jury of which nine were married men last night acquitted Gabriel Bernard, contractor, of the murder of Angelo Sippa, early in July. Bernard's defense was the unwritten law. When arrested Bernard dramatically cried:

"He lived like a dog and he deserved to die like one."

Bernard, who is wealthy, shot his victim to death after his wife confessed her relations with Sippa.

D., Sept. 27.—Uncle Sam's next big land lottery will be held in South Dakota from October 2 to 21, inclusive, when 466,562 acres of land in the Rosebud and Pine Ridge reservations will be offered as prizes to land-seekers. Gregory, Dallas, Chamberlain and Rapid City will be the registration points and on October 24 the drawing will begin at Gregory.

The price of every 160-acre tract already has been fixed by the government appraisers, and the homesteader will pay the price so fixed regardless of whether he files first or last. The prices range from 25 cents an acre for the roughest grazing land to $5 an acre for the finest level agricultural land.

WILL NOT TRANSFER MILLS

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—The Cochecho print works of the Pacific Mills corporation of this city will not be transferred from Dover, N. H., to Lawrence this year and it is said the contemplated removal may not occur at all. The Pacific Mills, one of the largest cotton plants in existence, came into control of the Cochecho print works at Dover, N. H., three years ago and preparations have been made to transfer the print works to Lawrence, where the company's mills employ nearly 6000 operatives. The reasons for the change of plans have not been made known.

CHILDREN SAVED

DRIVER IS DYING IN THE HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—As the result of saving several children from being injured by a runaway horse, George Ballantine, 40 years old, a driver of Glen Cove, L. I., dying in the Nassau hospital at Mineola of a fractured skull and internal injuries. Ballantine was driving a truck in Glen Cove yesterday morning when he saw a runaway horse dashing toward him, dragging a light wagon in which were three children, screaming with fright. The wagon was swaying perilously from side to side, and the children, Ballantine feared, would be dashed to death.

As the runaway approached, Ballantine leaped from his seat and landed in the road in front of the speeding animal. He grasped the bridle. The driver was dragged half a block, and at each leap of the horse he was kicked by the animal's flying hoofs, thus receiving his injuries. He was forced to release his hold, but by that time the animal was under control and was easily halted by a passerby.

Ballantine was unconscious, and was rushed to the hospital. The children whom he saved from injury were Philip, Jr., and Elmer Oswald and Mary Smith. Elmer was taking his brother and their girl friend for a drive when the horse became frightened and bolted.

The children ranged in age from eight to twelve years. They were not harmed.

MAN MOBBED

THEN HE WAS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Charged with manslaughter in running over and killing 4-year-old Albert Butchin, of 213 East 104th street, Peter Anglin, 22 years old, of 2011 First avenue, is held at the East 104th street station. Anglin desperately resisted two attempts to stop him after he had run over the boy, and was badly beaten by a mob of 500 men and women.

The Butchin boy was playing in front of 225 East 104th street and was bewildered by the team. The wheels of the wagon passed over his body, breaking his back. Mrs. Sarah Butchin, his mother, witnessed the accident.

MAINE YIELDS FOUR DEAD

HAVANA, Sept. 27.—Four bodies were found yesterday in the petty officers' room of the Maine. The workmen also uncovered the four rear bolters, which had not moved from their original position. The engineers expect to make a rapid search of this part of the Maine, which is less shattered than the forward section. It is believed that many bodies will be found.

JUDGE DECOURCY

HIS APPOINTMENT CONFIRMED BY THE COUNCIL

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—The appointment of Judge Decourcy to the supreme court made last week by Gov. Foss was confirmed unanimously today by the legislative council. The nomination of E. Gerry Brown for the superintendency of small loan agencies was held up for one week.

GOVERNOR FOSS

HAS NO AUTHORITY TO CONTINUE EMPLOYMENT OF EXPERTS

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—That Governor Foss had no authority to continue the employment of his experts after the prorogation of the legislature and that the executive council may not allow the experts compensation for time spent at hearings before the committee on ways and means and the council is the opinion of Attorney General Swift sent to the council today in response to questions asked by that body. The attorney general finds that while Governor Foss had authority to employ experts he had no authority to determine their compensation as that is left specifically to the council.

Mr. Swift rules that the statute does not imply that the reports of the experts should require oral explanation and any examination of such persons by a legislative committee puts them in exactly the same category as witnesses.

CANADIAN POLITICS

Inequality into Cause of Defeat of Reciprocity

MONTREAL, Sept. 27.—The Americans who came over the Canadian border on the train from Portland Friday evening were greeted with shouts of victory from a large number of people who gathered at the first station. They were cheering at their joy in his killing reciprocity. About that time also copies of Montreal newspapers were sold on the train, and they seemed to show that Canada had

The front page of one of those papers far surpassed in pictorial display anything I have ever before seen in the yellowest of American papers. A big picture which took up two-thirds of the front page was entitled "The Archangel Chains the Deceitree," and set the bottom in brackets were the words "The British Empire and the Cause of Guile Red." The angel, a large Amazon carrying the sword of "Loyalty" in one hand and the chain of votes

"Reciprocity is repudiated."

"Canada stands by the old flag and the old land."
"The gift of annexation has been denied for a generation, probably forever."

And a local shoe-maker at rest, we apprehend diplomatically sounded, said there were "my bars in this town" he was asked.

"Indeed there are, plenty," he said, grinning and showing his engaged teeth. He evidently knew what he was talking about.

"Well, there was no reciprocity on the train coming up this afternoon," the stranger ventured. "The bar on the dinner clock when we crossed the Canadian border."

"Why not?"

"I don't know."

"I heard the fear of annexation have anything to do with it?" he asked, though the question visibly staggered him.

"I guess so," he said at length, puffing his pipe as if to hide his ignorance in smoke.

"Did you vote?"

THE ATHLETICS WIN

Mack Men Are Pennant Winners in the American League

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27.—Willett and Works were grilled under a merciless fire of Mack hits yesterday, and although the Tigers retaliated somewhat in kind on Jack Coombs, they could not keep pace with the Athletics, who by winning by 11 to 5, destroyed the Tigers' last chance, and clinched the 1911 championship.

Before such a murderous onslaught as the champions gave the two mound-men Jennings sent to the middle of the diamond, there was never any question as to the outcome of the game. The Mack men put in 15 safe outs of the two Bengal hurlers, and they were good for 30 total bases. To six of the common garden variety of singles the Athletics added five doubles, two triples and two home runs. It was the hardest hitting seen at Shibe park this season. Frank Baker leading the cannonading with two home runs and two doubles in five times up.

Before such clouting the Detroiters played fine ball, in fact, their fielding was superb. If it had not been for the fact that they had been hit and extra bases credited to Mack's hefters, Cobb made two great running catches; Bush secured a couple of swiftly-going grounders over second base, as only Bush can, and Delehanty also got in the way of a pair of wicked raps and robbed the batters of hits.

If the game been of ordinary texture, the Tigers would have stood a chance of winning, for they battled Coombs hard enough to grab any game not of extraordinary making, but against such fire as directed on their pitchers it was impossible to successfully cope. The score:

YOUNG LOUGHREY

Was Quickly Stopped by Buck Crouse

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—Young Loughrey of Philadelphia made his Boston debut in the middleweight class last night, and was defeated by Buck Crouse, the hard-hitting Pittsburgh boxer, in the third round of an sensational bout as Boston fight fans have witnessed in many a day. Loughrey never had a chance against the Smokey City boxer except perhaps, in the opening round, when he scored a few wild swings around Crouse's neck and head, just as soon as he found his bearings, Crouse set about his work, and for the next two rounds not a blow that he directed at Loughrey missed the mark.

Blow after blow reached Loughrey's jaw. Twice in the first round Loughrey took the count, after the Quaker had stood up under a terrible punishment. It was remarkable that Loughrey could stand up under the rain of blows that he received until the bout was stopped, after about a minute's boxing in the third round.

Referee Matt Flaherty was complimented on all sides for his excellent judgment. When it became apparent that there wasn't a chance for the Quaker, Flaherty stopped the contest. Loughrey and his new manager, Al Lippe, created a scene when this occurred, and Loughrey expressed his opinion forcibly.

There was absolutely nothing else for Matt Flaherty to do but stop the contest as Loughrey was receiving a terrible whipping and was wholly unable to protect himself.

Battling Nelson said after the fight: "They say I am tough and can take a lot of punishment, but if I could take what Young Loughrey did I should be the lightweight champion. Loughrey is a game fellow and never gives up until the last hope is gone."

Loughrey has changed his style but very little. He has grown a trifle larger and against a less clever boxer than Crouse he might have a chance. But he is hardly a middleweight possibility.

Crouse not only showed that he was one of the greatest hitting boxers in the game, but he also displayed an unusual amount of brainy boxing.

While it lasted the contest was a sizzler, both boxers travelling at a rapid gait. Although he was being punished severely, Loughrey still maintained his aggressiveness, and this, with his courage to arise after being floored, brought about his quick finish. Altogether he was knocked down six times, and several times he was in a helpless condition on the ropes. He accepted his whipping with a smile, and only when the end came did he lose his head.

In the preliminaries Jerry Gaines and Bob Lefavour boxed eight rounds to a draw. Young Troy defeated Romie Riley in two rounds and Mark Spencer defeated Young Boucher, the latter taking the place of Tommy Flanagan, in six rounds.

FOX RE-ARRESTED

BUT HE WAS GIVEN ANOTHER CHANCE

ATTLEBORO, Sept. 27.—Thomas Fox, known as James Ryan in Rhode Island, who has served 18 years in the prisons of two states, was given another chance by Judge Byram yesterday, when he was brought into the district court on an old offense for which he was arrested on his release from the Massachusetts state prison at Charlestown last week.

Fox served 15 years in the Rhode Island penitentiary for highway robbery and while in prison made a daring attempt to escape, wounding two officials and being himself shot twice. He then spent three years at Charlestown.

Fox will go to Canada, where he has obtained a position in a mill, having learned a trade while in prison.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 27.—Ferry Haughton, Harvard's head football coach, is much to be envied, for he starts the season with a remarkable string of backs, plenty of excellent kickers and that fundamental triangle of open football, quarterback and ends who are experienced and fast. With Wigglesworth, Polter or Gardner at quarter and Smith and Felton on the wings the forward fling ought to work smoothly with only a little practice, for all these men were thoroughly drilled in its use last year. Both Smith and Felton are tall and rangy, and the former has a knack of keeping his feet after receiving the pass that means yards of extra territory. Felton is the long distance kicker who was sent in at the start of the Yale game last year. While his reputation was made principally as a punter, he could play his position pretty close to the standard, and if a better man does not show up at Cambridge he has an excellent chance to be paired with Smith when the big games come along. Many experts here predict that Wendell will be the halfback sensation of the year.

THE RED CROSS WORK

Was Explained by Miss Mabel Boardman

Miss Mabel Boardman, of Washington, D. C., spoke before a meeting of the Unitarian Alliance in the vestry of the Unitarian church, yesterday afternoon. Miss Boardman explained the project for an endowment fund and the need of the same for the work of the Red Cross in the United States.

She said that as war diminishes, the work of the Red Cross broadens to fill a needed want in the fields of peace—a field hitherto neglected—whereby the organization stands ready to undertake the aid of the suffering in times of great disaster, calamity or pestilence. Beyond that, the work is now rapidly spreading to include the prevention of disease and disaster. Not only is there constantly on hand the machinery of a vast organization useful for aiding the distressed, but there is a growing propaganda of instruction in such matters as precaution against accident, care to prevent disease, and first aid to the injured.

The organization is much less widely developed in the United States than in other countries. Japan has a membership of over a million, and an endowment fund of something like $7,000,000. Other powers have similarly large membership and equally adequate funds always on hand to provide a proper income for use in all emergencies. In the United States the society has as yet barely 20,000 members, and is only now raising an endowment fund of $2,000,000—while the speaker thought very modest by comparison with the wealth of the country, the work to be done, and the amount raised by other nations.

Already the work of raising the money has progressed in many cities, the aim in each case being to raise an amount equal to 10 cents for each person in the population. In every case this has been far exceeded, wherever the work has been pushed. New York city, for example, raised far more than the $450,000 demanded by the proportion set—and only 48 people contributed to it! A committee has been formed to prosecute the work in Lowell, and this city would be expected to raise $10,000 for the fund. The idea is, of course, that the Red Cross ought to be always prepared—not to have to delay getting to work in dire emergencies, as it does now, while the money can be contributed by generous friends in the neighborhood. "It is like a fire engine," said Miss Boardman. "You may not need it for a long time, but when you do need it you need it badly and at once."

The committee delegated to raise a share of the endowment fund in Lowell met Miss Boardman in the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dunbar and discussed the matter further.

THE BUTLER VETS

HAD A TRY-OUT ON THE NORTH COMMON

An interesting contest was held on the North common last night when two teams of the Gen. B. F. Butler Veteran Firemen's association, one composed of the veterans, and the other formed of young men of the association, competed to know which team would represent the association at the Firemen's water at the Brookton fair.

The young men who were using the "Liberty" tub, a mile stroke, batted the water 22 feet, while their opponents with "Hercules" manned by 50 men, forced the water 210 feet, thus beating the old gentlemen.

BIG MONEY WAS MADE

In the Former Post-Season Series of Baseball Games

Looking back over the scores of the world's series played by the Giants and the Athletics in 1905 one will readily notice that only a few of those former stars are left. Mathewson, Devlin and Ames still wear New York uniforms, while Plank, Bender, Lord, Harrell, Murphy and Harry Davis have been playing under Connie Mack's management ever since, with the exception of Lord, who was released and then taken back later.

Of the all conquering Giants of that year Roger Bresnahan, who caught all the games in the big series, is manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, having just signed a five years' contract at $15,000 a year. It is said, Daniel McGinnis, the first baseman, committed suicide in Louisville, Ky., last year. Billy Gilbert, the second baseman, managed the Binghamton New York state league team this season. Bill Dahlen, the shortstop, still holds the managerial reins over the Brooklyn team. Sam Morten, who last year was in a small league in the far west, Mike Donlin is playing center field for the Boston Tall Riders. George Browne, after a short engagement with the Brooklyn last summer, dropped out of major league company. Iron Man McGinnity is part owner and manager of the Newark Eastern league club and still shows some of his old skill in the box.

Of the Athletics who won the American league pennant in 1905 and played against the Giants, exclusively of those named above, Lave Cross, the third baseman, played with the Charlotte Carolina association team last year. Monte Cross, the shortstop, managed the Scranton New York state league team this season. Stebbins, the right fielder, has dropped out of sight. Powers, the catcher, died two years ago, and Schreckengost, the other batsman, has since played in Louisville. Coadley, one of the pitchers, is playing semi-professional ball in this city.

Members of the Athletics who did not play in the world's series were Jack Knight, now with the Highlanders; Hubie Waddell, who has fallen into minor league obscurity and who couldn't pitch against the Giants because he had a lame arm, and Danny Hoffman, who was released by the St. Louis Browns several months ago. The other Giants who saw the series from the bench were George Witte, who can pitch good ball yet; Dummy Taylor, who was with the Buffalo Eastern League team this year; Frank Powerman, the big catcher who tried to manage the Boston Nationals and then went to the minors, and Sam Strong, who played his last important engagement in Baltimore a year ago.

The 1905 world's series consisted of five games, all shutouts. The first game was played in Philadelphia on October 3 and was won by the Giants, 3 to 0. The attendance was 17,555 and the gross receipts $12,735. The Athletics, with Bender pitching, won the second game at the polo grounds by the same score, in the presence of 24,292 paid spectators, the receipts being $18,588. The Giants captured the third contest, played in Philadelphia, 3 to 0, the paid attendance being 10,391 and the receipts $8,318. The next two games were played in New York, the Giants winning both, 1 to 0 and 2 to 0. The total attendance these days was 27,795 and the receipts $23,355. For the five games the total attendance was 91,735 and the receipts $83,435. Of this amount the Giants received $20,415.56 and the Athletics $6,348.94. Each club owner took down $17,088.02 and the national commission's rakeoff was $6,840.77.

The 1903 world's series between the Pittsburgh and the Detroit hung up records in attendance figures and gate money that still are unexcelled, though new figures may be created this fall. These games, seven in all, drew 145,235 individuals and $188,202.53 in gross receipts. The Pittsburgh cut up $40,149 and the Detroit divided $26,759.66, a total of $66,908.65, while the club owners halved $107,547.45 and the commission got $18,800.25. Last year the Athletics and Cubs drew 124,222 persons in five games and $173,980 in gate money, of which the teams shared $78,071.93, the clubs $77,510.07 and the commission $17,398.

Despite the fact that the Cubs seem to be hopelessly beaten for the pennant, Chicago fans are praising Capt. Chance for the game fight he has made against discouraging odds. Deprived of the services of Johnny Evers and Orville Overall all season, handicapped by Chance's illness, which compelled him to stop playing, and compelled to let Steinfield and John Kling go, the Chicagoans have made things interesting for the other National league teams all season. With the inexperienced youngsters, Selar and Jim Doyle, covering first and third bases respectively, and the once mighty Three Fingers Brown pitching in and out ball, Chance has worked wonders. Sheppard has not played up to the standard of former years and it was not until midseason that King Cole began to display his form of 1910. With a comparatively weak pitching department it is true that the Cubs managed to keep up in the race because of the great work of Schulte, Plaker, Archer, Zimmerman, Ritchie and Hoffman. Had it not been for the achievements of these men it is safe to say that the Cubs would have been far down in the race. If Chance and Evers had been fit to play their regular positions all season and if Brown and Cole had shown the skill of former years, victory City critics concede themselves with the belief that the Cubs would have won the pennant as easily as they did a year ago. Chance may be beaten this season, but he'll come back next spring with another contender for the championship, for he isn't a quitter and always keeps an eye on the future.

Had Premier Laurier not been absolutely honest, honorable and devoted to the people he would have had the reciprocity pact passed by the Canadian parliament without an appeal to the country. He gave his enemies the opportunity they sought.

It is a mean and cowardly thing for a crowd to jeer at an aviator whose machine is not in working order. Several aviators have lost their lives by being goaded into flying with defective engines. The man who knows the danger should resist the hooting of the senseless mob.

It is well that the associated governors of the country have banded together in defense of state rights. There has been a very emphatic tendency of late to extend federal authority over the states to an unwarranted degree and to usurp functions that belong to the sovereign states. It is well to combat that tendency at the outset lest it should become so obnoxious as to curtail the powers and restrict the rights of the states.

When we have a heavy rain, such as we had Monday afternoon, we learn something about the comparative uselessness of cinder sidewalks, and the walks and streets made of yellow clay. Such streets and sidewalks were deeply gullied by the storm of Monday afternoon. Especially are the hilly streets torn by the heavy rains, and for that reason they should be surfaced with material solid enough to withstand such tests.

The second year of the university extension course in Boston will open in October. It offers a splendid opportunity for advancement to those who are employed during the day. The professors represent all the leading institutions of learning in Greater Boston together with Wellesley and Simmons colleges. Most of the courses will count toward the degree of associate in arts in the leading colleges. This is ahead of anything of the kind available in our city in the line of advanced courses.

WOMEN FORGING AHEAD

Benjamin F. Hamilton of Saco, Me., who died the other day, was among the first to employ women as store clerks. That was sixty-five years ago, and since that time women have made wonderful headway in various lines of business until today they have made their mark in the professions. Even in politics they aspire to positions formerly held by men. A notable instance of this at the present time is seen in the woman mayor of Hunkewell, Kansas, who is tending it in masterly style over a recalcitrant city council. Women in recent years have done much to assert their rights and to secure the fair treatment that entitles them to equal compensation with men for any given amount of labor. The time may come when the well equipped woman who runs for governor or even for president will not be regarded as a joke. A masculine woman is better any time than a feminine man.

BREAK BETWEEN ITALY AND TURKEY

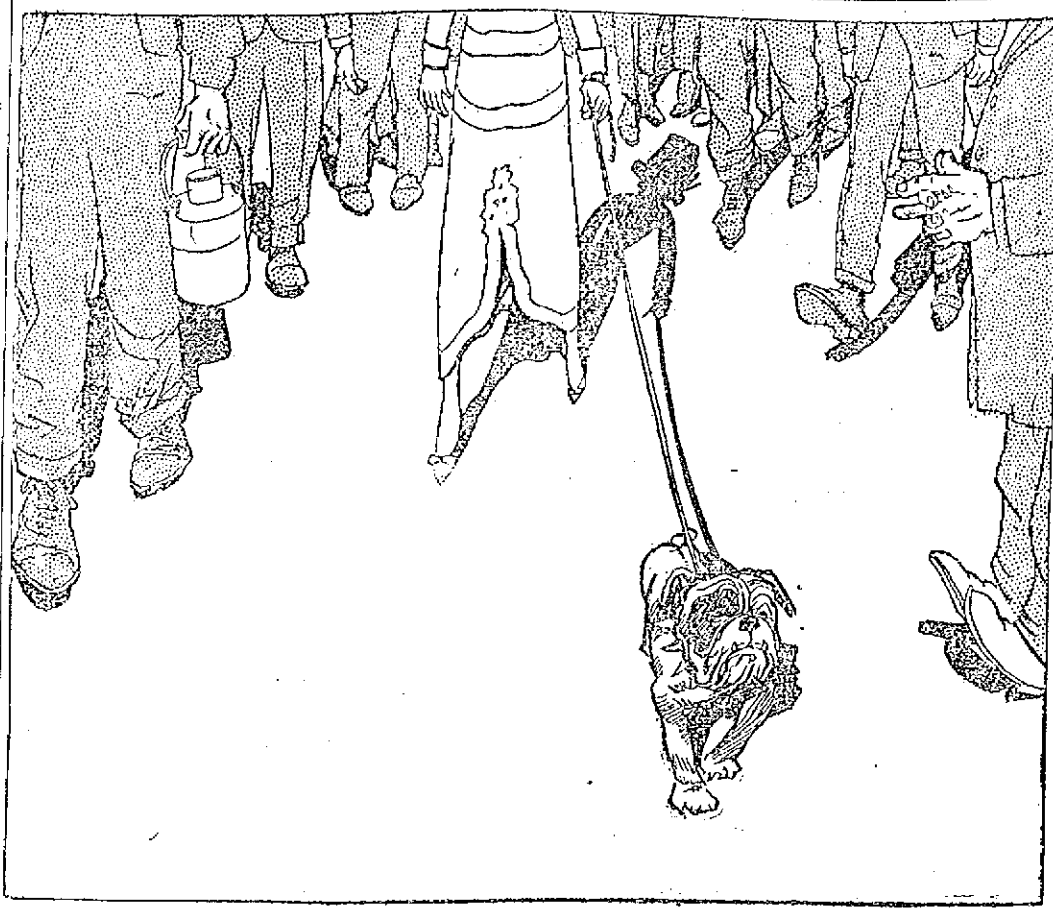

As Germany and France are about to settle up their differences in regard to their North African claims, Turkey and Italy are ready to come to blows. Turkey precipitated the rupture by seizing an Italian vessel. Italy is now getting ready to enforce her claims in Tripoli. It is understood that Italian goods have recently been boycotted in Tripoli, and a Turkish leader has aroused Mohammedan sentiment to a high pitch against the Italians resident or doing business there. The province is Turkish territory and Italy is willing to pay for certain rights for the purpose of pursuing a policy of commercial development. If Italy be driven out in the present instance she will have no other foothold in Northern Africa for the exploitation of her goods. It is for this reason that Italy is determined to fight against the Turkish policy of discrimination by which she would be driven out to the advantage of other powers. Although Italy has her entire fleet ready for battle the trouble will probably be settled by arbitration. Turkey has appealed to the powers, and while that appeal is pending it is not likely that Italy will open hostilities.

THE STATE PRIMARY LAW A SUCCESS

The first trial of the state primary law has been a complete success. Today the voters of the commonwealth know just who has been nominated on the different political tickets whereas in former years they had to wait until the various conventions formally nominated the candidates. There were state, county and councillor conventions, and in each particular case where there happened to be a close contest there was a sparring match for the credentials or the votes of delegates. In some cases the candidates went out and purchased credentials or bribed the delegates to vote for men whom they were elected to oppose. By this means and by snap conventions the will of the people was often thwarted and men nominated by trickery and fraud. Where several candidates sought the same office it often happened that the candidate who received the highest vote at the polls was defeated by a combination of the delegates pledged to his opponents. Moreover the nominating convention frequently resulted in conflicts that made the election of the nominees impossible. Thus again the will of the people was defeated. But all this has been changed, and now every state officer from governor down to representative to the legislature and register of deeds is nominated by popular vote. The candidate who gets the highest vote is declared the nominee, and there is no more chance of fraud at the primaries than there is at a regular election.

This simplifies the work of nominating candidates. It purifies the political atmosphere and removes even the suspicion of intrigue. The state primary law is, therefore, so far as it has been applied, a decided improvement, and we do not believe that anybody except the political tricksters would wish to return to the old system. Whether the nominations are good or bad they represent the will of the people, and there can be no evil on that score.

FASHION'S LATEST CREATION

SEEN AND HEARD

What a fool a man can be when he tries his best to be wise!

I have noticed that when a man is economical and saves money for a rainy day, providence usually sends one.

When a man is uneasy himself he asks everybody else to have confidence.

A woman never admits a fault as though she really meant it.

Delegates James Wickersham of Alaska, at a reception in Washington, nodded rather contemptuously toward a much-decorated general.

"You see those three superb medals on the general's breast?" he said. "Well, I'll tell you how he got them. He got the third because he already had two. He got the second because he had one. And he got the first because he had none."

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the famous food expert, said in Washington, apropos of beer made of cabbage leaves:

"To give the world beer of hops and malt is really nothing, but a cabbage beer is not only to injure the health—it is to injure the character—the character, I mean, of the brewer and his hands."

"It reminds me of a bad boy."

"This boy, for being a truant and runaway, was put in a reformatory. A grown-up friend of his visited him there. He had some friends, you see, for his badness was due to hoisterous high spirits rather than to viciousness or meanness."

"Well, Jack," said the grown-up friend, "how are you getting on here in this institution?"

"The lad smiled a smile singularly bitter for one so young."

"O, I'm getting on fine, sir," he replied. "They are going, they say, to make an honest man of me."

"And how are they going to make an honest man of you, Jack, my boy?"

"Well, sir, they're started by putting me in a sack shop. I stuff pasteboard into oak leather soles."

P. F. Willis of Dallas, the leader of the Texas delegates to the Associated Advertising clubs convention in Boston, was condemning dishonest advertising.

"The dishonest advertiser," he said, "gets shown up in the long run. He faces the same as Gus Blake."

"Gus Blake was a trolley conductor. One day when the car was crowded, a gentleman hailed Gus in the aisle and said, extending a nickel:

"Here you are, my man."

"But, sir," said Gus, in an astonished tone, "you paid before."

"The gentleman then frowned and said in a very loud, stern voice:

"Yes, I know; but this is for the company."

The clock struck 11 p. m. Mrs. Moggs yawning behind her fan, Mr. Moggs coughed. But their visitors disregarded the hint, and began to discourse on the simple life. At 11:30 they were in the thick of politics. At 12 they were arguing about Shakespeare. At 12:30 they were wading in philosophy. At 1 it was standard bread. Then Mrs. Moggs frowned meaningly at her sleepy spouse. Un-

BEAUTIFUL AUTUMN DAYS
Of the beauties of the autumn
Poets oft in praise do sing;
Of the lovely tinted sunsets
Of the birds that southward wing.

They do carol of the bright tints
To be seen on hedge and tree,
And they call you to the country
Where you'll autumn glories see.

They can tell you of the sadness
Of the fading autumn day—
Sadness for a soulful revel
In the sun's last slanting ray.

But there's signs of sadder moment
That will tell you autumn's here—
Coal bills coming—gas bills climbing
Worse than falling leaves so here.

THE SKYLARK

All the earth seems meshed in music;
And the soul goes forth in quest—
Like the wee brown birdlings circling
Upward from the hidden nest.

Sweeter song, earth hath not heard,
Than in high, free air, they're singing.

Back their matchless music flinging;
From each tiny, love-mad bird
Falls a silver rain of song.

Knee-deep 'mong thyme and sikeen
grasses,
And banks of clover all a-way
With every truant breeze that passes,
Riffling perfume all the way.

All entranced I halt to listen
To the sky-larks singing, singing—
As their circled flight they're wing-
ing;

Drench the meadows all a-glisten
With a silver rain of song.

Seems it not as heaven's portal,
By some loved one left ajar,
And a flood of the glorious anthem
Breaks across the golden bar?

And my soul mounts on the glory
Of the sky-larks' flawless singing,
Into nearer kinship bringing
Ancient lore and sacred story.

Woven into silver song.

Humble garb but sacred fire
To each songster he hath given;
Wings for mounting higher, higher,
Till ye storm the gates of heaven.

Chained to earth, a luckless mortal,
A humble song I too am singing,
But like these airy souls am winging
Upward toward the heavenly portal.

On the silver wings of song.
—Winifred Lloyd Scott.

THE GYPSY GIRL.
"Come, try your skill, kind gentlemen,
A penny for three tries,"
Some threw and lost, some threw and won.

A ten-penny prize.

She was a tawny gypsy girl,
A girl of twenty years,
I liked her for the bumps of gold
That tingled from her ears.

I liked the faring yellow scarf
Bound loose about her throat;
I liked her shawly purple gown
And flashy velvet coat.

A man came up, too loose of tongue,
And said no good to her;
She did not blush as Saxons do,
Or turn upon the cur.

She frowned and whined "Sweet gentle man,
We like a wolf to see,
But, oh, the den of wild things in
The darkness of her eyes."

The fabled savage of her soul
Was like a wolf to see,
And more than all her pretty rags
And riches humored me.

—Ralph Hodgson, in Saturday Review

EDITORIAL COMMENT

New York Herald: The result is a triumph for the protected interests of Canada and is made possible by the failure of the agricultural element to rally to the cause that would have bettered their condition through opening the great markets of the United States to their products. It was to be expected that the allies would oppose the Laurier government, and it could have successfully withstood urban losses, but the defection of the farmers left the liberals stranded high and dry. The effect on the future of Canada of this election must be watched with interest. The new government will go into office committed to a protective tariff. It also opposes the naval policy adopted by the liberals. It remains to be seen, however, how the cultural Canada, responsible for the defeat of reciprocity, will like the bed it has made for itself.

SAMUEL C. LAWRENCE
Boston Journal: An exceptionally varied and eventful life was that of the late Samuel C. Lawrence. One of the first to respond to the call to arms in 1861, he was wounded at Bull Run, while in command of the 5th Massachusetts regiment. Military affairs, and particularly the Massachusetts militia, thereafter continued to interest him; only last June he acted for the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company as the personal escort of Gov. Foss. To the Lawrence Light Guard of his native city Gen. Lawrence presented what is probably the best equipped company armory in the state.

But it is as a financier and railroad man that Lawrence's foremost citizen has been best known. The reorganization of the old Eastern railroad company, the development of the Boston & Maine, and later his sturdy opposition to the New Haven merger were the "high points" of this activity.

SECRETARY WILSON SHOULD GO
Philadelphia Ledger: It is regrettable to admit that Secretary Wilson as chief of the department has lost his usefulness. He has been guilty of an overzeal in the interests of parties to disputes when he should have been the impartial and critical judge. His statement that his activity in behalf of manufacturers at a time when he would not permit his own experts to testify on the opposite side of the question was in accord with the policy of the administration, was an insult to the president and show Wilson's fundamental incapacity to form a proper conception of his duties.

THE BOY SCOUTS
GAVE AN EXHIBITION OF THEIR WORK

The "Eagle" troop and the "Beaver" troop, number 5, of the local organization of the Boy Scouts gave an exhibition of their work at the Centralville M. E. church last night. The troops were put through a strenuous drill by their scout master, James F. Carlson, and the exhibition was a very interesting one.

The program was presented by the companies as follows: Whistle and call to order, and the scout's motto, "Be Prepared," roll call and prayer, by the drill staff; the tenderfoots were then sworn into the patrol; first aid to the injured, Clifford Merrill and Cyril Worth; handkerchief bandage, Carl Lunan, commander of the "Beaver" patrol; French bandage and artificial respiration, Stanley Worth and Frank Callahan; signaling, Joseph Garmon and Allen Morse; wireless exhibition, Rothwell Worth; fire lighting, Joseph Garmon and Stanley Worth.

The "Beaver" troop consisted of eight members who took part in the drill, under the command of Carl Lunan, while the "Eagle" patrol was in command of Joseph Garmon, and was composed of ten members.

AERIAL MAIL CARRIER

Postmaster Gen. Hitchcock Has Qualified

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Postmaster-General Frank H. Hitchcock qualified as an aerial mail carrier on Long Island late yesterday afternoon. While a large crowd cheered vociferously, the postmaster-general took a seat beside Capt. Paul Cook of the United States army in the latter's aeroplane at the Nassau Boulevard aerodrome, carrying 78 pounds of mail matter. Without the slightest mishap the two made a seven-minute flight to Mincola, where, upon signal, the postmaster-general dropped the mail sack to one of Uncle Sam's carriers.

When the postmaster-general returned to the aerodrome he was warmly greeted and the large crowd rushed on to the field to greet him. "The time is certainly coming," he said enthusiastically, "when we must depend upon the aeroplane for carrying mail. It is not effective yet, but it is being developed in a marvelous way, and I think we shall soon find it practical."

Although some had expected that the postmaster-general might balk at the proposed flight yesterday in view of the fatal accident which befell Dr. Clarke Monday, Mr. Hitchcock showed no timidity. He said he wanted to make the flight in order to stimulate interest in the possibilities of the aeroplane for carrying mail. "We have got to use everything that is the ultra-advancement of science," he said.

Another feature of the fourth day of the international meet was a flight by Lieut. T. DeWitt Milling, U. S. A., who broke the American record for carrying a passenger. He and a private of his regiment were aloft for 1 hour, 51 minutes, 42 3-5 seconds. Claude Grahame-Smith and Tom Sorwith and Mlle. Dutrieu, also made successful flights.

SEVERELY INJURED

Woman Was Run Down by An Automobile

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—Miss Marion Keane, 26 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Keane of 19A Astor road, Forest Hills, was severely injured by being knocked down by an automobile as she was leaving Forest Hills station of the Boston elevated railway about 6 o'clock last evening.

Miss Keane, who was on her way to her home nearby, went from the platform through the turnstile at the southwesterly side of the station. The turnstile leads the passenger directly upon the outward roadway and, after passing through, one must walk in the street to reach a sidewalk. There is little or nothing to show the driver of a horse or automobile that a turnstile or gate for passengers opens there.

As Miss Keane stepped quickly out on the roadway, Henry Thake of 53 Putnam avenue, Cambridge, came along in his automobile. According to the account given the police by Mr. Thake and the witnesses, the machine was passing through the turnstile at the rate of seven or eight miles an hour, and that Mr. Thake shouted to Miss Keane and also sounded his horn, at the same time shutting off the engine and applying the brake. He claimed that he brought the machine to a halt within a distance of two feet and so suddenly that some of the mechanism was broken.

But all efforts to avoid striking the young woman were unavailing and she was thrown on the pavement. It is said that she was killed.

The station was filled with people and a large group soon gathered around the auto. Mr. Thake was helped to get Miss Keane into the auto and she was taken to the Emerson hospital.

Dr. Hollis G. Batchelder of Dedham found that Miss Keane had sustained a fracture of the left shoulder, fractures of four fingers of the left hand, a cut under the left eye and bruises about the body. It was said at the hospital late in the evening that her condition was not considered dangerous. Dr. Batchelder said there is always a possibility of internal injuries developing in such cases. The police did not hold Mr. Thake.

AT ST. PETER'S

LARGE CONGREGATIONS ATTENDED THE SERVICES

Large congregations continue to attend the services in the men's mission at St. Peter's church. Last evening Rev. Fr. Ryan, O. S. A., was the preacher in the main church. The reverend gentleman took for his text the sacrament of penance, and he eloquently explained why the sacrament was instituted. His urgent frequent visits to the tribunal of penance, Rev. Fr. Heffernan officiated at benediction, and a feature of the musical program was the rendition of a beautiful "O Salutaris" by David P. Martin.

In St. Paul's church the attendance was large, and Rev. Fr. O'Mahoney, O. S. A., was the preacher. He spoke on penance and the importance of frequent visits so as to be always in the state of grace.

The hearing of confessions started last evening immediately after the services and will continue throughout the week. Rev. Fr. O'Donnell, O. S. A., was the celebrant of the 5 o'clock mass this morning, and there was a very large number of communicants. Fr. O'Donnell at the close of the mass gave a thoughtful instruction on the commandment of God, "Honor Thy Father and Mother."

FIRE IN WIGGINVILLE

An alarm from box 315, shortly after 9 o'clock last night summoned a portion of the fire department to a slight blaze in a house in Wigginsville, Wigginsville. The fire started in a window and was undoubtedly caused by children playing with matches.

Continued

There was considerable speculation yesterday as to the result of the contest between Dr. B. Barlow and Charles T. Kilpatrick, for the place of republican senatorial nominee in the eighth district. The impression about town was that it would be a pretty even thing but it was fairly close at that and it took a corking good vote to land Mr. Barlow.

That J. Edward Kearns should win out against Rep. Dennis Murphy in the 15th district representative contest was more or less of a surprise to a great many of the "pols." Mr. Murphy defeated Mr. Kearns last year and that Mr. Kearns should turn the tables on him this time was just the least little bit unlooked for. Mr. Kearns didn't have very much to come and go on, his majority being 28.

In the 16th representative district Eugene F. Toomey defeated John J. O'Connell by 171 votes in one of the most spirited contests of the day. When the returns came in from ward four it looked good for Mr. O'Connell but when ward five came in Mr. Toomey had votes enough and to spare. It was a fairly close contest, however, and a good fight.

Once in a while the political wise-ones will pick a winner or two and that happened in the case of Victor Francis Jewett and Henry Achin, Jr., in the 17th district fight for the republican nomination. They were picked for winners and they won. There were five candidates in the field, the other three being Messrs. Leonard, Foyster and Gray. The democrats who will stack up against Messrs. Jewett and Achin are Stephen F. Monahan and Hercule A. Toupin.

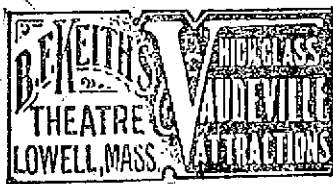

In the 14th representative district, Otis W. Butler defeated Roderick Chisholm for the republican nomination. Joseph Craig won out in a big field in the republican contest in the 15th representative district. His opponents were Messrs. Dow, Edwards, Lewis, Mayberry, Randlett and Smith. Craig polled 223 votes and his nearest opponent was Fred O. Lewis with 202 votes. Mr. Craig is practically a new comer in the political arena and he won his victory by the dint of hard labor and his friends, who are legion, turned out and helped him out beautifully.

The local results were as follows:

For Register of Deeds, Northern Middlesex:
Republican, Horace S. Bacon, Lowell.
Democratic, William C. Purcell, Lowell.

For Senator, 7th Middlesex District:
Republican, Frank P. Bennett, Saugus.
Democratic, Philip Kieley, Lynn.

For Senator, 8th Middlesex District:
Republican, Dr. B. Barlow, Lowell.
Democratic, Henry J. Draper, Lowell.

It Isn't Their Job

Therefore Housework
Looks Beautiful to Some People

"It was Tom Sawyer and his white-washed fence," said the woman who writes for a living, "who first immortalized the job of the other fellow's job. This explains, I suppose, the fact that the woman's magazines today are bubbling over with fanciful articles entitled, for example, 'Good Taste in Dish Washing' and 'How to Beautify the Garbage Pail.' The overworked housewife, wearied by the monotony of three meals a day and all concomitant evils, is refreshed beyond all measure when she can snatch a few minutes from toil to peruse in the pages of her favorite home monthly inspirational articles which seem the very ebullitions of lofty souls able to rise above the sordidness of daily living and to dignify the scrubbing brush, the meat chopper and the washtub. She is apt to feel discouraged with a sense of her own unworthiness as one abiding on a lower plane unless she recalls the fact that these enthusiastic articles are written by women whose whole task is to write about housework, not to perform it themselves in large doses.

"Hardly without exception women writers, doctors, lawyers, teachers and all others who earn their living with their brains rather than with their hands cannot say enough in praise of domestic duties. They speak, too, in all sincerity, for there is nothing more regenerating to the tired brain worker than the relaxation that comes from a complete change of employment, percolated in their case by a dip into manual labor. They all have noted also that it is far easier to force one's hands than one's brains. Small wonder it is that the woman whose ordinary path of duty lies along scholastic lines welcomes the emergency call which points the way to the frying pan or the bread board. The euffragette is as proud of her shelf of Jellies as Marie Antoinette of her model dairy, and for the same reason—"It isn't her job."

The Art of Teamaking.

A GOOD cup of tea is something too infrequently met with when one considers the prevalent use of tea as a beverage. The fault often lies less in the tea than in the manner of its making. Here are some of the rules which, if observed, will prove the quality of the product:

Don't use water that has been boiled a long time in brewing tea.

Don't use water which has not yet reached the boiling point.

Don't allow the tea to brew for more than five minutes.

Don't make tea in a cold teapot.

Rinse with hot water before placing the leaves in the pot.

Don't pour a second water over the leaves when the first brew is exhausted.

Don't allow tea to grow damp in the caddy.

Don't buy too cheap a quality of tea and expect good results.

Here is the Japanese method of making a delightfully refreshing beverage: Heat the earthen or china teapot thoroughly with boiling water, then empty out the water and put in the tea, pour in freshly boiled water, let it stand for five minutes and serve.

The teapot never touches the stove.

A tiny tea caddy of Japanese paper is put over the teapot the moment the water is poured on, and a delicious cup of tea is thus secured without having extracted the injurious ingredients—the tannin.

Always use a porcelain or earthenware teapot. Tea experts tell us that the fragrant leaf should never touch metal.

All About the House

TO CLEAN CORDUROY.

HOW many mothers have worried over the problem of cleaning baby's white corduroy coat satisfactorily and without having recourse to the professional cleaner.

The garments may be cleaned as often as necessary if these directions are remembered:

Shave very thinly a bar of some pure soap, add with two tablespoons of kerosene to about half a pail of water.

Boil this mixture until it is reduced to one quarter. Use a small portion of this and plenty of water to cleanse the garment. When sufficiently cleansed fold the garment, spread out as much as possible while you rinse it up and down in clear cold water repeatedly. Be careful to have the nap running up.

When the pile is raised hang in the same position to dry. Be careful not to wring or otherwise touch the garment. It should be fastened to the line with ordinary clothespins. If by some oversight the nap becomes flattened wait until the place is thoroughly dry, when a brisk rubbing with a hand broom will obviate the trouble.

SKIRT PADS.

SOME dressmakers frequently have difficulty in making skirts cut with the raised waist line hang straight in front at the line of the normal waist.

At this point the skirt breaks and is apt to show an ugly wrinkle, especially when the wearer is seated.

This can be obviated by making a small oblong pad of the skirt material and inserting it directly in front. The pad is made four inches long and two inches wide and is placed lengthwise with the skirt. It can be tacked in place.

COPPER CASSEROLES.

AMONG the novelties for the table are many individual copper casseroles. These are highly bronzed and have

What Is New, Smart and Exclusive In the Season's fashionable furs

LATEST STYLES IN MARABOU SETS FOR THE AUTUMN

NOTHING is softer and more becoming to the face than marabou, and for an in-between season set to don before it is really cold enough for the marabou muff and neck pieces are just the thing. The illustration shows the latest developments in these feathery accessories combined with handsome broadsides, satins and velvets.

THE most interesting news concerning the mode in pelts is the introduction of tailor-made suits in fur with an accompanying hand bag to match. The skins used are moleskin and broadtail, the latter further beautified with trimmings of ermine. In cut the fur tailored suit resembles its sister of cloth construction. Skirts are narrow and jackets short and semitailored. The fur bags carried with these costumes are huge affairs finished at the bottom with a deep fringe of silk.

The novelty fur of the season is silver seal, and as this skin seldom comes out in the same tone the pelt will be used almost exclusively by milliners in their creations. Another pelt that is rather new is the fur of the gray wolf, which makes up into delectable scarf and muff sets. By the way, these scarfs are extremely wide and long, reaching in many instances to the hem of the skirt.

Muffs will continue to be large, with a soft padding giving some thickness, and one finds the most costly furs made up into flat, roundish muffs with a deep, heavy fringe of the same color across the bottom. The large, flat bolster muff so much carried last winter is not among the new showings. It has been replaced by a triangular creation, which is even bigger and more imposing than the bolster of old. The deep point of this triangular muff hanging low when carried is rather effective, but it remains to be seen whether it will be taken up by conservative women.

In decided contrast to the wide scarfs and stoles are the tiny cravats of sealskin and moleskin worked out in mosaic patterns. These pieces are about six inches deep and fit snugly around the throat.

Coats in imitation and the cheaper furs are made up in long, loose kimono shapes, making them easy to slip on over dressy frocks, but seal, mink and sable are not often cut in fancy shapes which are apt to go out of style quickly. These models take the form of short jackets, with broad and button trimmings, or box coats for motorizing and driving, and are cut on the regulation ulster lines, with fitted sleeves.

Maribou will share honors with the fashionable furs the coming winter. In connection with maribou effects there are other feather novelties of a striking character this season.

Why should a waist belt made of feathers be one of fashion's contributions to the autumn program unless it be with a view to pleasing those who rejoice in novelties? It is not a sensible suggestion, but small feathers closely packed together are deemed very smart now. They are the feathers of barn door fowls and game birds that are used, dyed to meet the needs of their manipulators.

A pair of bouclé shoes is made all of glossy brown feathers, mingled with the metallic green that is seen in millinery so often now. There are plumage hats, too, which take the place of ribbon upon felt hats, and with their usual delightful inconsequence the brims of such hats are in some cases made of white net elaborately embroidered with white fleecy silk.

The Value of System In the Household

IT is not the woman who rushes in madly who accomplishes most. System is what counts. Have certain hours for certain duties.

Give yourself plenty of time for the performance of each duty, but no more than you are entitled to according to your plans made beforehand.

Five minutes' reflection at night is worth more than an hour's rush in the morning.

Let the busy woman see that her clothes are in order for the next day, that she has a clean change of linen with all the buttons on, that her shoes are well polished and her gloves and belt laid in plain sight.

If everything is at hand she should be able to take her bath and dress in half an hour. Then she may eat a leisurely breakfast and be ready for a good day's work.

That's what a little planning and foresight will do for her.

The woman whose house is run in the best order, who keeps her help the longest and has them best trained has a day for each duty.

She can in this way accomplish part of her work before her mistress is up, as well as plan tomorrow's labor the way her mistress does.

Method should always be used with respect to children. A child who knows what it is expected to do at a certain hour will eventually be trained into the routine of doing it, thus saving its mother many precious minutes.

The woman who has no method might just as well give up trying to accomplish anything in this world. She loses too much time through lack of forethought and planning.

Winterhalter Girls

THE appreciation for sloping shoulders, a synonym for all that was striking and tender and essentially feminine in the middle of the last century, is noticed again this season, and the evening aspect of many a winter's debutante will be that of Winterhalter's portraits of the beauties of 1840 and thereabouts. The corsage is worn low upon the shoulders, and the outline is very simple. A few folds of gauze drawn beneath a large rose in the center suggest the bertha of old times that made so beautiful a frame for the figure.

Many girls of today have a charming faculty for adapting the prettiest fashions of early Victorian days, improving upon them, it is needless to say. They dress their hair with the simple and demure grace of that period without its severity and wear the chaplet of leaves and foliage that used to be almost an essential badge of girlhood with a new and very alluring grace.

Hand Bags to Be Smaller

THERE is every indication that hand bags are going to be smaller this fall than for several seasons. Women are tired of carrying bags as cumbersome as suit cases wherever they go. Even the bag made like the dress shows the same tendency to shrink in size.

All that is needed to fill a bag that goes with a gown are a few toilet accessories, and there is no use in the clumsy things that have been serving the purpose. Cords to bags are also becoming shorter, though for bags that match gowns the cord must be long enough to swing the receptacle from the wrist. The Japanese bags with celluloid bars across the front and back each side the opening are the ones in general use.

Jewel Box In Bedstead

A WOMAN having a horror of burglars after having thought of all manner of means of keeping her jewelry safe has had one of the posts of her bedstead hollowed out to make a safe hiding place for her treasures.

The jewels cannot be discovered by unscrewing the part about the hollowed-out receptacle, for, although there is a removable head at the top of the post, there is also a second very cleverly arranged pediment, which must be removed before the receptacle in which the jewels are placed can be found.

A SIMPLE PRECAUTION.

The wise woman sent a sudden vigorous puff of breath at the jet of steam rising from the copper teakettle she was filling and repeated it hastily as she filled the blue pot and set the kettle back on the stove with a nod of triumph. "That trick has saved me many a scalded hand," she asserted. "Whether I read it or was told it I am not sure, but until I tried it I was always getting the most painful burns."

Try This Beauty Sleep

About once a month try this beauty sleep. Sleep twice around the clock and see how rested and refreshed you will feel. At first the restless mind, the very one that needs the treatment most, will say, "Oh, I should go mad lying in bed all that time," but if tried systematically it is not a hardship. Self suggestion plays an important part. When retiring at night impress upon your mind the idea that you need not awaken the next morning. When you do awaken naturally have a light breakfast, keep the blinds down and lie immediately down again, with the idea of sleeping a few hours more. Have no reading or writing at hand and keep the eyes closed even if you do not sleep. When you awaken take a little hot milk and again snuggle down in bed, and so on for twenty-four hours. It is the most magnificent way of taking a holiday and will do you more good, make you look younger and fresher than a whole week's cutting. Before commencing the beauty sleep take a warm bath.

A TROUBLE SAVER.

When washing children's dresses or underwear with ribbon drawn through the following is a good plan and saves a lot of trouble, as no bodkin is required: Sew or pin to the end of the ribbon a piece of tape of the same length. Pull the ribbon out of the garment, leaving the tape in its place. When the garment is washed the ribbon is replaced in the same way.

GREAT-GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE.

Here's the way one great-grandmother, aged eighty-nine, managed to be healthy and happy during her long life:

First—A glass or two of buttermilk every day for health. This is excellent for the stomach and counteracts the acids which act on the bodily cells.

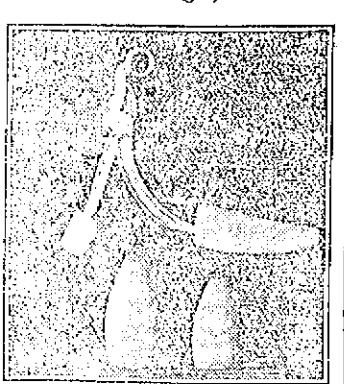

Second—Take olive oil either mixed with food or in a tablespoon. This aids in promoting good looks, good spirits and good digestion.

Third—Sleep on a pillow of hops, which promotes sound sleep and refreshing slumber. The best sleepers live longest and enjoy better bodily and mental health.

Fourth—Cultivate cheerfulness. This not only makes the cultivator happy, but makes those around him or her more comfortable and inspires friendship.

Fifth—Avoid tight fitting shoes.

It fills a Long felt Want

THE NEW SHOE SHINER.

WITH this simple piece of mechanism any woman may be her own shoe shiner, for she has only to place her boots, shoes or pumps over the properly sized form, fit it to the tip of the iron nose, clamp it firmly and apply the black, tan or white polish.

STATUE TO MOTHER-IN-LAW.

The mother-in-law is usually considered a very annoying and troublesome person, who is indirectly associated with all the worries between husband and wife. It is therefore surprising to record the tribute to a mother-in-law from her son's wife, no less a personage than the English Queen-Mother, Alexandra. In the royal manor at Frogmore, in the royal statue of our Saviour, which was sent from Denmark by Alexandra's order, and on the base are inscribed the words "In memory of the best of mothers-in-law."

Cookery Notes

SAVORY SCRAM- BLED EGGS.

SAVORY scrambled eggs, which belong to the same category foreign family as Spanish omelet, is a favorite breakfast or luncheon dish in many families. A dozen fresh green peppers are roasted a few minutes, then peeled, and all the bitter seeds and membranes removed. Chop them up, cook in a very little water till tender and butter well. Six or eight eggs are then beaten as usual, salted and added to the peppers, and the whole is fried for a few minutes in hot butter.

GRAPEFRUIT JELLY.

This makes a delicious sweet for Sunday night supper. Cook two and one-half level tablespoons of granulated gelatin in one-half cup of cold water for fifteen minutes, add one cup of boiling water, three-fourths of a cup of sugar and one tablespoon of lemon juice. Keep hot over boiling water till the gelatin is thoroughly dissolved, then strain. Add three tablespoons of pineapple juice and one and three-fourths of a cup of grapefruit juice. Turn into a mold which has been wet with cold water and set the jelly aside to harden. Pieces of the grapefruit pulp may be added if desired.

VILLAGE CUSTARD.

M. Lafarge, chef of a famous New York hotel, is responsible for this recipe, which, he says, is a treat in itself. The custard is prepared by saturating five ounces of dry biscuits with kirsh and placing them in a deep dish with alternate layers of seasonable fruit, such as pears, apples or peaches. Mix together a half pound of powdered sugar, eight eggs and the yellow of four eggs beaten with three-quarters of a pint of milk. Pour over the biscuits and fruit and poach in the oven, being careful not to let boil.

SAVING THE INVALID'S NERVES.

Silk petticoats, starch wearables and creaking shoes should be avoided by the attendant in an invalid's room. Whispering is intensely irritating to a sick person, who naturally concludes that his symptoms are so bad that the conversation between the nurse and visitor should be in a low tone of voice, but quite distinct. If there is anything to be said that the invalid must not hear it had better be said in the hall, entirely out of his sight, earshot and imagination. A small table in the hall, outside the sickroom, will be appreciated by the nurse and by whoever has to deliver and call for the invalid's food tray.

Jabots Worn on Heart Side

THE fancy which has sprung up this year for the jabot has become almost universal. The new effects are far removed from the slim and court-trimmed jabots which were worn ten years ago. The most fashionable ones at present measure not less than twelve inches in width and, starting quite high on the shoulder, finish in a point at the waist like a large revers. The side frill illustrated is of this type.

FRILL OF LAWN AND LACE.

The new jabot is worn on the heart side, but there is nothing sentimental in keeping it distinctly crisp and clean.

Any woman who is reasonably expert with her needle should be able to copy this very smart looking stock and side frill of fine white net and fillet lace. The stock, generously boned, is of finely tucked net bordered with narrow edging, and the closely gathered triangular shaped frill is bordered on the short and one long side with wide fillet edging.

A VACUUM WASHER.

A device if it does what is claimed for it should be welcomed with joy by every wise and careful housewife. It has recently been exhibited in Australia. It is a vacuum clothes washer in a form so compact that, placed in an ordinary wash boiler, it forces boiling water through the clothes at a rate of four gallons or more a minute. The cleansing powers of this operation will be readily appreciated, and it is carried on absolutely without wear and tear upon the garments subjected to it.

THE BIAS FASTENING.

It is one of the new fashions to fasten a skirt on the bias from the right hip over to the left knee. Blouses are also fastened in this diagonal fashion. The idea was brought about by the innovation of one sided trimming on many of the new gowns.

These little ensembles can be served at any meal. It is not necessary to keep them for a dinner entrée. Shredded eggs to be them for breakfast and macaroni with cheese for lunch.

DISINFECT YOUR CARPET.

If any article in the house furnishing needs disinfecting occasionally it is the carpet, especially if it has been used a considerable time.

The following is a method recommended both as a disinfectant and a preventive of moths:

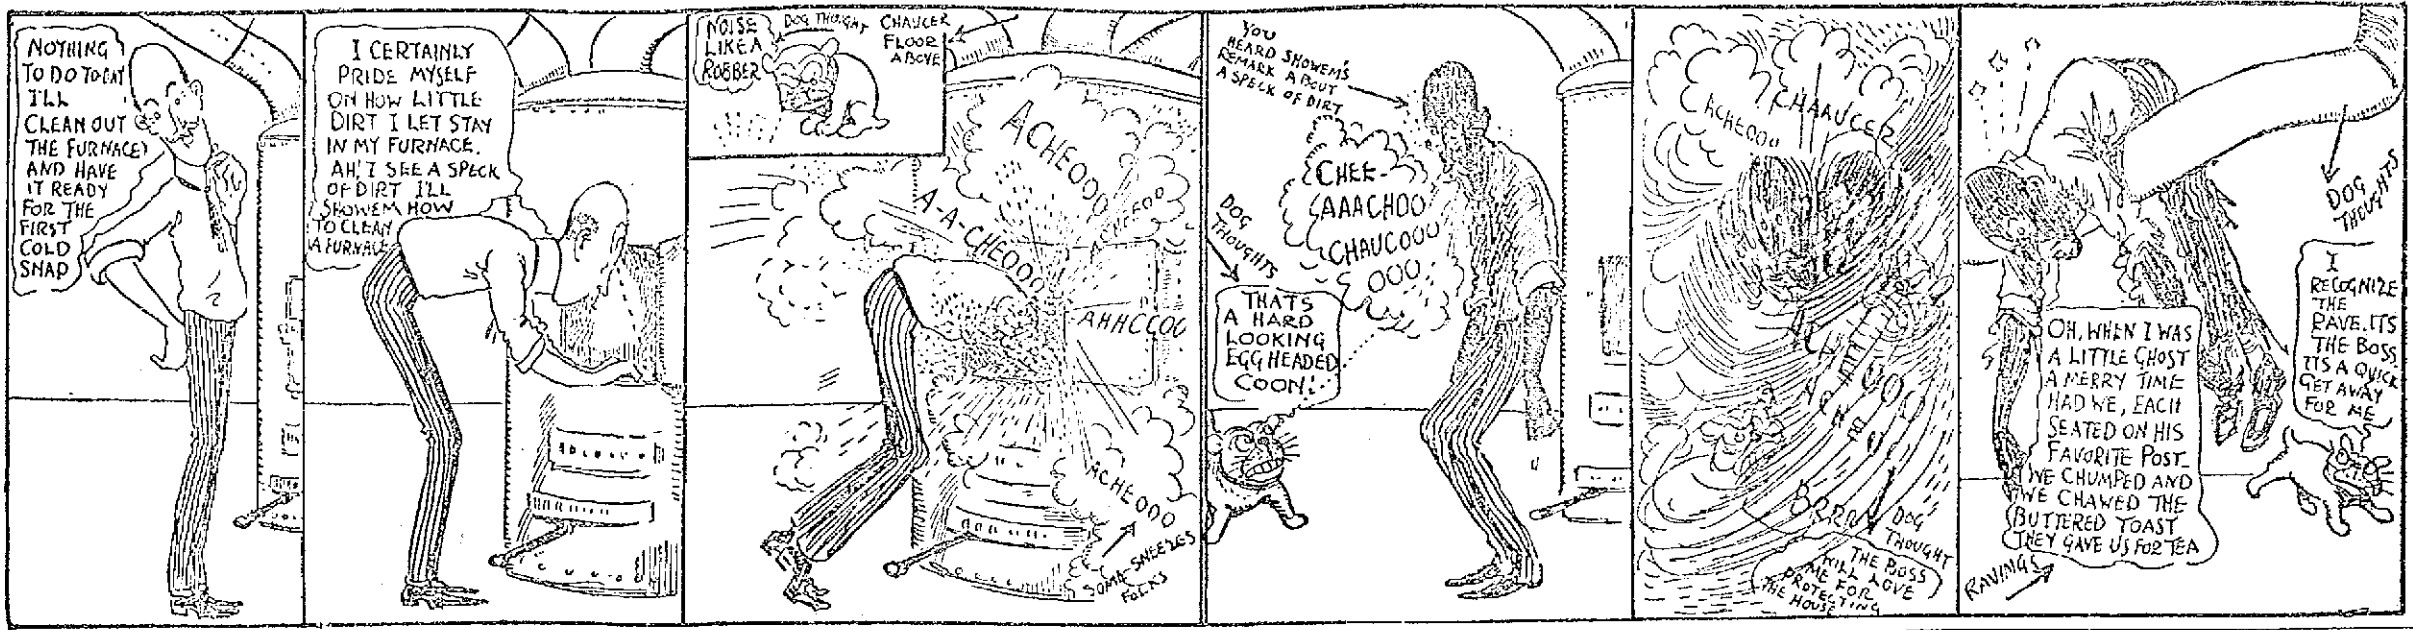

Add three tablespoons of turpentine to three quarts of water, saturate a large sponge with this mixture, squeeze it almost two-thirds dry and go over the carpet carefully.

As soon as the sponge becomes dirty cleanse it and immerse it in turpentine and water again. You will be surprised to see how bright and new it will make the carpet.

A FEW USEFUL HINTS.

STAINS caused by medicines, and especially liniment marks, are among the most obstinate of removal and frequently tax amateur knowledge to the utmost. Indolene marks may, however, be successfully removed by means of liquid ammonia, a little of the spirit being poured into the saucer and the stained garment laid across it and the spot dabbed repeatedly with the finger until it disappears. It should then be rinsed in tepid water and washed with strong soapuds in the usual manner.

DURING THE CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT

BIG VOTE FOR FOSS

Continued

THE EARLY RETURNS
BOSTON, Sept. 27.—Gov. Eugene N. Foss will head the democratic state ticket and Lieut. Gov. Louis A. Frothingham the republican state ticket in the election on Nov. 7, as a result of the state-wide direct primaries held yesterday.

The primaries brought out a larger vote than was anticipated, though the total fell far short of that polled in the last state election.

The returns at midnight indicated the nomination of Lieut. Gov. Frothingham by a large margin, with Joseph Walker second and Norman H. White third. White's weakness in the large cities, his population was surprising, as was his strength in the small towns.

At midnight returns had been received from 109 out of 109 voting precincts, representing 55 towns and five cities, including Boston, with the following results: Frothingham, 15,560; Jos. A. Walker, 5271; White, 3561.

Democratic—Foss, 32,190; Thomas Higgen, 212.

These same places at the election in 1910 gave the republicans 55,507; democrats, 71,055.

Secretary of state—Republican, A. P. Langtry, 17,341; Russell A. Wood, 60,590; Democrat, Frank J. Donaghue, 21,590; Edward O. Skilton, 5461.

Auditor—Republican, Herbert W. Burr, 5187; John E. White, 13,744.

Attorney general—Democratic, Geo. W. Anderson, 16,990; Joseph L. Leonard, 13,115.

At midnight Mr. White conceded the nomination of Mr. Frothingham, and sent him the following note:

"Permit me to congratulate you upon your victory. It is my earnest hope that you will lead the republican party to victory in November. I shall be glad to do all I can for the success of the party."

This was encouraging news to the Frothingham forces, inasmuch as White had declared on the stump in the last week of the campaign that the nomination of Frothingham meant the re-election of Gov. Foss.

Boston Gave Higgen 1089
The vote for the republican nomination for governor in Boston was: Frothingham, 5737; Walker, 2140; White, 685.

Francis A. Campbell won out over Edward D. Collins for the democratic nomination for clerk of the superior court, 15,135, against 13,396.

John F. Cronin of Boston received 19,955 votes in Boston for the democratic nomination for clerk of the superior court, 15,135, against 13,396.

John P. Manning, clerk of the superior criminal court, won over James L. O'Connell for the democratic nomination for that office by 21,439 to 5731 in Boston.

Charles L. Burill defeated Alexander McDougall for the republican nomination for councillor in the Boston wards of the 4th district, but indications pointed to victory for McGregor in the remainder of the district.

Barry to Run for Council
The democrats made no regular nomination for this district, but former Councillor Edward P. Barry of South Boston was nominated on stickers, and will oppose the republican nominee at the polls.

The Donovan Kellher-Boyle forces were victorious over the Curley-Fitzgerald combination in the 4th senatorial district, nominating Thompson as M. Joyce over Timothy F. Callahan by a majority of 40.

In the 5th Suffolk senatorial fight for the democratic nomination, Robert P. Clarkson won out over a field of seven candidates, receiving 870 votes to 673 for Edward H. Plunkham, his nearest competitor.

Senator James P. Tully won out over John J. O'Hara for the democratic senatorial nomination in the 7th Suffolk district by a majority of 700.

In the 8th Suffolk senatorial district Francis J. Morgan won over John J. Hear for the democratic nomination. Hear was supported by the Fitzgerald organization.

On the republican side in the same district Edward W. Brewer defeated Joseph J. Feely by 20 votes. The vote for the three candidates was: Brewer, 970; Feely, 950; Hannan, 507.

Cushing Defeats Parker
Councillor J. Stearns Cushing of Norwood defeated W. Prentiss Parker for the republican nomination for that office in the Boston section of the 2d district by a vote of 2337 to 2047. Capt. Cushing's majority will be greatly increased by the vote in the other sections of the district.

Secretary of State Langtry carried his home city, Springfield, by an overwhelming vote against Russell A. Wood.

The fact that the new state-wide primary system, which was tried out for the first time in Massachusetts yesterday, requires all voters to enroll themselves under either the democratic, the republican or the democratic progressive banner, caused a lot of dissatisfaction.

In Holyoke at least 100 voters refused to declare themselves and left the polls. Foss carried the city by 1677 to 142 for his opponent, Thomas L. Higgen. Frothingham received 295 votes and Walker 265. The total vote cast was 2617, out of a total registration of 7500.

GOSNOLD'S VOTE MISSING

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—With the exception of the little town of Gosnold, which is made up of a dozen islands, and cast 20 votes for governor last year, every city and town in the state had reported on yesterday's direct primaries at 11 a. m. today. The vote for governor with Gosnold missing was as follows:

Republican—Louis S. Frothingham, 65,315; Joseph Walker, 23,254; Norman H. White, 18,632.

Democratic—Eugene N. Foss, 63,161; Thomas L. Higgen, 5232.

Total, 181,654.

Total vote at November election, 402,137.

NEW HAVEN ROAD

Reports Deficit of $313,288 in Revenues

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 27.—A deficit of $313,288 in the revenues of the New Haven system for the fiscal year is shown in the annual statement of President Melton to the stockholders today. The statement shows that the company and its subsidiaries, including the Ontario & Western, the Boston & Maine and the Maine Central and their controlled lines, had a total revenue for the fiscal year of $37,230,963; expenses of $35,070,455, and net operating revenue of $2,160,508. The total income of the combined statement is $22,783,318; deductions from income $18,807,118; net income applicable to dividends, $16,574,403; dividends paid, $10,885,491, and deficits, $212,288.

The table shows that the subsidiary properties of the company, excluding those named earned net over and above all charges $554,231.

In the text of his report President Melton calls attention to the increased wages of the year of more than a million and a half of dollars as a major factor in the increased operating expenses and says that had the old rate of wages been maintained there would have been a surplus over the dividends paid.

PROPERTY OF ROCKEFELLER

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—The report of Chicago's vice commission cannot be sent through the United States mails, according to a decision handed down by Acting Assistant Attorney-General P. V. Kifer. The decision was received from Washington late yesterday by Postmaster Campbell.

The 1000 copies of the report held by the postal authorities as unailable are the property of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., according to members of the commission. The reports were bought by Mr. Rockefeller and ordered mailed to obscure and reform workers in all sections of the country as the first step in a plan to establish permanent vice-commissionaries in all the important population centres of the country.

The anti-vice movement is said to be the result of interest aroused when Mr. Rockefeller was appointed foreman of a grand jury in New York which investigated white slave trafficking.

CAR STRUCK AN AUTO

Three Men Met With Painful Injuries

An automobile containing Mr. Chas. T. Douglas, of the firm of J. L. Douglas, slate roofers, and three of his employees, was struck by an outward bound electric car at the junction of Middlesex and Branch streets, near Dover street, about 7 o'clock this morning, and the three employees were injured, although Mr. Douglas escaped injury.

The men who occupied the machine were Mr. Douglas, who was driving, Fred Ward, Louis Gauthier and a man named Henault. Mr. Douglas was taken to a hospital in the city, where some work was being done.

Senora Creel had been living in Santa Barbara since Diaz was deposed. She held much property in Los Angeles and San Diego. Eight children survive her.

BOSTON & ALBANY MEETING

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—At the annual meeting of the Boston & Albany R. R. Co. stockholders today the by-laws of the company were amended by substituting a new arrangement in which the chief changes are a provision for ten instead of nine directors and constitution of five stockholders representing one-fifth of the outstanding stock as a quorum against a majority of the stock as formerly. The only new director elected was William R. Vanderbilt, Jr.

SEEKS TO FREE SON

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Steps were taken yesterday by Norman B. Ream to annul the recent elopement marriage of his son, Louis Marshall Ream, to Eleanor Pendleton Davidson, a former actress. The grounds of procedure for the severing of the ties were not announced.

The former Miss Davidson and her mother, who have just sent out cards to their friends announcing the marriage, declined to comment upon this action.

RIOTS IN NEW YORK Bullets Used and Three Wounded at the Primaries

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Primary elections in 15 assembly districts in New York city yesterday developed into fights in which fists and bullets were used.

Three men in an east side polling place were shot and seriously wounded and in a number of other districts warring factions came to blows, notwithstanding Sheriff Shea had mobilized his entire force of 100 deputies and Police Commissioner Waldo had assigned practically his entire army of 10,000 bluecoats to keep order.

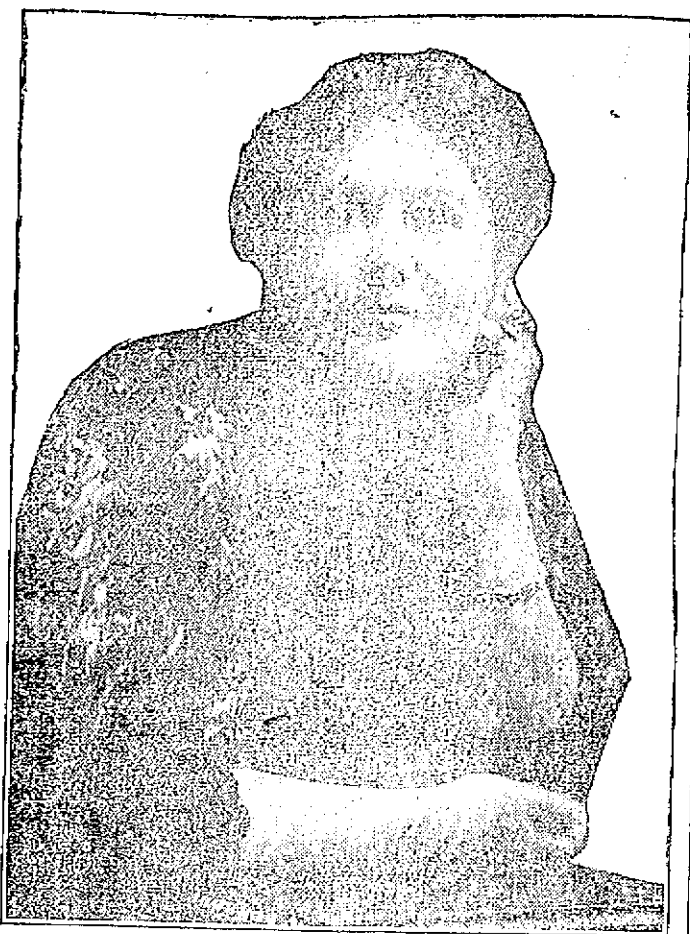

In connection with the primary fight the information came from St. Luke's hospital last night that James Ahearn, an old-time Tammany district leader, who was having a bitter fight to keep his power from going to James J. Hines, is in that institution, suffering from a broken arm and other injuries.

It was learned that Ahearn was brought to the hospital in an automobile late in the afternoon, but the hospital authorities declared they did not know how or where the Tammany leader received his injuries. Reference was also maintained by democratic and republican leaders of the 15th assembly district.

The shooting of the three men occurred in the 15th assembly district on the east side at 7 o'clock last night. Two rough men drew revolvers and shot into a crowd of voters in front of the democratic polling place. Three men fell wounded, one shot in the abdomen, each of the other two in an arm. One of the latter was James Costello, a special officer.

The police believe that the assailants who escaped after the shooting were members of the "Johnny Spanish gang" of the lower east side. The wounded men were hurried to a hospital, where the surgeons said they would probably recover.

There were serious rows in several other election districts and many arrests were made for alleged illegal voting.

JOSEPH MICHAUD Died in Nashua of Heat Prostration

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 27.—Joseph Michaud, aged 47, of Lowell, died yesterday at the Nashua hospital of heat prostration. He came to Hudson Monday and began work on the farm of Dr. Alfred K. Hills. During the day he drank large quantities of cold water.

He was taken suddenly ill and was conveyed to his home in Lowell. He leaves a wife and two children.

ELEANOR SEARS MADE ATTEMPT TO CAPTURE RUNAWAY HORSE

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—The successful effort of Miss Eleanor Sears of this city to turn a runaway horse away from the seats whence a fashionable gallery was watching the matches over-shadowed interest in the play today in the third round of the annual woman's lawn tennis tournament at the Longwood Cricket club. The animal, attached to a delivery wagon, became frightened and broke through the fence at one side of the court. It headed direct for the crowd. Eleanor, who was in the midst of her match with Miss Edith Hatch of Boston, ran from the court and jumped at the horse's bridle. She failed to grasp it but her movement made the horse swerve from his course and return to the road. Dashing between two trees the animal freed itself from the harness and ran down the street, where it was captured shortly afterward. Miss Sears calmly resumed play, losing her match after three hard sets.

Miss Hazel Hotchkiss of Berkeley, Cal., the national women's champion, had no difficulty in winning from Miss Hilda Williams of Boston, allowing her opponent but one game.

CONSERVATION CONGRESS
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 27.—An explanation of why former President Roosevelt did not attend the present meeting constituted one of the interesting features of today's final session of the third national conservation congress. The announcement yesterday by Dr. Henry Wallace, president of the congress, that he would read today an explanatory letter from the former president created widespread comment.

Addresses by Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior and William J. Bryan, discussion of good roads in relation to the farmer, practical forestry and soils, the election of officers and choice of next year's meeting place were on today's program.

The following slate of officers for the congress, arranged by the nomination committee will be elected this afternoon.

President, J. B. White, Kansas City; executive secretary, Thomas R. Shipps, Washington; treasurer, D. A. Lathrop, Kansas City; recording secretary, James Gipe, Clarke, La. It is expected the election would be practically by unanimous vote. There are no contests for any of the offices.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

By long odds the biggest laughing hit ever shown in this city is the little sketch being offered by Mr. and Mrs. Allison, this week as a feature at K. Keith's new theatre, in Bridge street, and called "Minnie from Minnesota." This little singing skit, with its little plot and lots of fun deals with a song writer whose moments of inspiration are frequently broken by a dense, Swedish servant girl. By an odd chance "Minnie," the Swede girl, inherits a fortune from an uncle in Minnesota whereupon the impecunious song writer immediately makes love to her, only to find himself fooled by the apparently simple and innocent Swede. With this act and billed as the headliner is Dr. Herman, an electrical vibrator who toys with the death-dealing current as the ordinary person handles a harmless object. Besides being a man of mystery, Dr. Herman is a wit of repute and, after holding the tense interest of the audience for some time, closes his act with a demonstration of the high voltage he uses on persons from the audience, which is the funniest of these imaginable. Another act which cannot help but become very popular with the theatre goers of this city is "The Chalk Line," by Harlan Knight and company, showing how the friendship of the postmaster and the general storekeeper of a little country town in Maine is broken through the happening of a trifling thing. The remainder of the bill is made up of John Neff and Carrier Starr in Mr. Neff's imitable "Farring," "The Brainstorm Musician" and the "Telephone Girl." Although the stage is literally covered with musical instruments the only music which Mr. Neff furnishes is chin music and this he gives most generously. Miss Starr sings several songs which are features of the act; Emma Brothers finished dancers; Harry Fantelle and Viola Valerie, elite entertainers and Roeder and Lester, exponents of gymnastics. Daylight moving picture films close the bill. Tickets for the coming performances of the week may be ordered in advance by telephone 23.—Adv.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

The audience at the Opera House last night was not as large as the high standard of the play deserved. "The Nest Egg" as presented is a delicious piece of comedy in which the dramatic climaxes come so unexpectedly as to stir the audience to enthusiasm. At such climax at last night's performance there were half a dozen curtain calls.

Zelda Sears, character comedienne and creator of many of the Pitkin comedy types in the plays by the well known author, is tonight appearing at the Opera House in a new comedy by Anna Caldwell entitled "The Nest Egg." Miss Sears has appeared in many of the late Clyde Fitch plays, and to use an ordinary expression, she has frequently been considered "the whole show." This is probably due to her talents and personality and to the fact that Mr. Fitch knew her capabilities so well that he had her in mind when he wrote these plays. In fact, just prior to his death he had almost finished a play for her in which she was to be the principal feature. She still has the manuscript in her trunk but has felt of her friend so keenly that although the script needs but finishing touches, she has never had the heart to present it.

Miss Sears has surrounded herself with a company selected with great care from many years' experience in the profession, and each character has been fitted to the part.

The theme of "The Nest Egg" is new and follows original lines and there are several quaint characterizations in the piece that will appeal on their own merits. It is a comedy of unusual circumstances and situations and an entertaining built on modern lines. The cast and production are the same which characterized the long run of "The Nest Egg" at the Bijou theatre, New York, the Chicago Opera House, Chicago, Ill., and the Park theatre, Boston.

THE NEWLYWEDES
It is said that the "Newlyweds and Their Baby," which comes to the Opera House Friday and Saturday, is a tremendous laughing success. It has been the test for the past two seasons and its reception by press and public proves conclusively that the show has won popularity on its merits. The comedy is founded on the McManis cartoon. The book is by Aaron Hartman and Paul West, while the music and lyrics are by Seymour Brown, Ned Ayer and John W. Bratton. The Newlyweds and Their Baby well deserves the title of the chuckling, bubbling, cooing comedy with music.—Adv.

JUMPED FROM TRAIN

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 27.—Dreaming of football scrimmages in his berth in a train bound to New York, Charles Burrows, said to be a candidate for the Yale eleven, plunged through the window during the night while the train was going 50 miles an hour. He was picked up by negro farmhands near Maragon, Ala. Burrows, who hails from Joplin, Mo., continued his journey, little the worse for the "scrimmage."

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

If you are partial to Scotch and Irish dancing, given in true style, then don't fail to attend this week's offering at the Merrimack Square theatre. The Fraser Troupe are high-class dancers, who make a specialty of the favorite reels of Scotland and Ireland, and they give them in characteristic style. To add a genuineness to their act the male for the dancing is provided by a bagpiper who knows just how to inject that liveliness and swing into the work that brings out the best there's in it. The two young women of the troupe are clever and graceful, while the men are also expert in their work. The sword dance, the sailor's hornpipe and the Irish reel are only some of the excellent numbers provided by these people. If you wish to fully appreciate their work attend one of the performances at this popular playhouse. The other numbers on the bill are first class. Our stock company presents the best one-act play since its coming to Lowell, and the contributors to the bill are up to the high standard of the former. Always something going on at this theatre. Telephone 2033.—Adv.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

If you wish to see the comedy drama which caused a furore in theatrical circles upon its first presentation do not miss "Naughty Rebecca," which the Donald Meek stock company is presenting this week, at this theatre. This comedy, which was the first ever dramatized by Maurice Hingeman, a noted dramatist, gave its author a position in the forefront of American dramatists. The comedy lasts fully two hours, and there's not one minute of this time which is not spent in hearty laughter by the audience, so extremely funny are the happenings.

The plot of the story is founded on a retired business man, who is a great lover of his drink, having an unblemished record for thirty years, or there about, he was married. Although he is upheld by his wife as a model husband, he has a penchant for a "night out" with the "boys," but never gets a visit to his wife. While on a visit to his niece, he meets one Mr. Decker, a gentleman of wealth and very popular with patrons of "The Great White Way," who tells him that he will give him an introduction to a most bewitching thespian if he meets that night at the Casino. The old fellow agrees and makes arrangements for going to the Casino. He is about to go when he thinks of his wife, and tries to frame up a lie in order that her suspicions will not be aroused. Just as he is about to tell her of his intended visit to a friend, a messenger leaves a telegram requesting his wife to come at once to the home of her sister, who has been taken suddenly ill. Shortly after his wife leaves he goes to the Casino and is there introduced to Miss Pitt, a noted thespian, whom he invited out to supper. The two leave a private dining room in a well known cafe where a beautiful repast is ordered. The old fellow's actions are annoying to the actress, and she goes to another part of the cafe, leaving him alone to finish the dinner. He acquires a "lag" and prompts the lobby of the hotel, where he is confronted by his nephew, who has also a very unsteady gait. The two run from each other. Mrs. Decker and Mrs. Andrews, relatives of Mr. Goodwin, arrive themselves in Miss Decker's cloak for the purpose of testing the loyalty of their husbands, whom they have telegraphed to the cafe with anonymous letters. In due time all meet and the scene is a most ludicrous one.—Adv.

BOARD OF POLICE

Granted a Number of Minor Licenses

The board of police met in regular session last night and gave a hearing to people who remonstrated against the granting of a billiard and pool license to William J. Griffin at 48 Adams street. William A. Hogan appeared for the respondent and the remonstrators were represented by J. Joseph Hennessy.

The store at 48 Adams street was formerly occupied by James Petros, who lost his license after having been convicted of allowing gaming in his place. Petros sold his pool tables to William Potter, who in turn sold them on a lease to William J. Griffin, who put in an application for the license. There was some misunderstanding about the terms of the lease and the manner in which it was dated, but after an explanation by William Potter, the matter was adjusted in a satisfactory manner and the license granted.

A communication from the Service Specialty Co., which wished to apply for a license to open a rifle and revolver academy for the instruction of policemen, watchmen and others whose duties require proficiency in the use of firearms was read. The company is establishing a string of academies of a like nature in the New England cities, each of them to be in charge of local managers. The manager of the local academy would be Gerald V. Flewelling and the location is to be in Middlesex street. The matter was laid on the table.

The following minor licenses were granted:

For the sale of ice cream, etc., on the Lord's day: Prosper Simano, 7 Thorndike street; express, Simon Blunkski, 27 Davidson street; hawkers and peddlers, George O. Boulester, 301 Richardson street; junk dealer, Simon Blunkski, 52 Railroad street; sixth class license as druggist, Arthur W. Churchill, for the Unit & Lyon Co.; to be on table, pool and billiards, Paul Bourque, 437 Moody street.

Martin F. Cashman, who a short time ago entered a complaint against Frank Suprenant of the New Merrimack hotel, requested a hearing but the matter was laid on the table.

A KIDNAPPED BOY

Was Found Wandering in Street in Brooklyn

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Five year old Vincent Sabella, son of a wealthy Italian wine merchant who was kidnapped three months ago, was found wandering in a Brooklyn street early today and was taken back to his parents by the police. The kidnappers had demanded $300 ransom in a long series of letters, the last of which, received a month ago, contained a small piece of human flesh which was declared to have been clipped from the boy's ear. The lad declared today, however, that he had been well treated all the time he was away. He could give no account as to the location of the house where he was detained.

The police believe that the elder Sabella yielded to the kidnappers' demands, although he denies the charge.
